When the truck is used to carry a load in excess of the rated capacity of the truck, neither of the above formulas is correct. In such cases, the weight of the truck's engine, weight of the truck's chassis and weight of the truck's equipment should be included in the manufacturer's rated weight figure. The weight of various items and the weight of people should be included in the cargo. The total required should not exceed the truck's rated weight rating. When the truck engine is loaded, drive to a scale and weigh on the front end and on the rear wheels separately to determine axle loads.
