Challenging the normative paradigm that school readiness is a positive and necessary objective for all young children this book asserts that the concept is a deficit based practice that fosters the continuation of discriminatory classifications Tager draws on findings of a qualitative study to reveal how the neoliberal agenda of school reform based on high stakes testing sorts and labels children as non ready affecting their overall schooling careers Tager reflects critically on the relationship between race and school readiness showing how the resulting exclusionary measures perpetuate the marginalization of low income Black children from an early age Disrupting expected notions of readiness is imperative to ending practices of structural classism and racism in early childhood education Inequality for All William Schmidt,Curtis

McKnight,2015-04-17 Inequality for All makes an important contribution to current debates about economic inequalities and the growing achievement gap particularly in mathematics and science education The authors argue that the greatest source of variation in opportunity to learn is not between local communities or even schools but between classrooms They zero in on one of the core elements of schooling coverage of subject matter content and examine how such opportunities are distributed across the millions of school children in the United States Drawing on data from the third TIMSS international study of curriculum and achievement as well as a six district study of over 500 schools across the United States they point to Common Core State Standards as being a key step in creating a more level playing field for all students William H Schmidt is University Distinguished Professor at Michigan State University and co director of the Education Policy Center Curtis C McKnight is emeritus professor of mathematics at the University of Oklahoma A Perspective on Reform in Mathematics and Science Education Project 2061 (American Association for the Advancement of Science),Floyd James Rutherford,1996
