

An aerial photograph of a city, likely London, showing a dense urban grid. A large, leafy tree is in the foreground on the left, its branches extending across the frame. The city below is a mix of green spaces and built-up areas. A dark grey horizontal band is superimposed over the middle of the image, containing the title text.

Masterplanning Futures By Bullivant Lucy 2012 Paperback:

Masterplanning Futures Lucy Bullivant, 2012 Lucy Bullivant analyses the ideals and processes of international masterplans and their role in the evolution of many different types of urban contexts in both the developed and developing world. Among the book's key themes are landscape driven schemes, social equity through the reevaluation of spatial planning and the evolution of strategies responding to a range of ecological issues and the demands of social growth. The author's research was enabled by grants from the Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment (CABE), the SFA, the Netherlands Architecture Fund, the Danish Embassy and support from the Alfred Herrhausen Society. Recoded City Thomas Ermacora, Lucy Bullivant, 2016-07-01 Recoded City examines alternative urban design planning and architecture for the other 90% namely the practice of participatory placemaking, a burgeoning practice that co-author Thomas Ermacora terms recoding. In combining bottom up and top down means of regenerating and rebalancing neighbourhoods affected by declining welfare or struck by disaster, this growing movement brings greater resilience. Recoded City sheds light on a new epoch in the relationship between cities and civil society by presenting an emerging range of collaborative solutions and distributed governance models. The authors draw on their own fresh research of global pioneers forging localist design strategies, public realm interventions and new stakeholder dynamics. As the world becomes increasingly digital and virtual, a myriad of online tools and technological options is becoming available. These give unprecedented co-creation opportunities to communities and professionals alike, yielding the benefits of a more open DIY society. Because of its close engagement with people, place and local identity, the field of participatory placemaking has huge untapped potential. Responding to the challenges of the Anthropocene era, Recoded City is for decision makers, developers and practitioners working globally to make better and more liveable cities. The Routledge Companion to Twentieth and Early Twenty-First Century

Urban Design Jon Lang, 2020-11-09 The Routledge Companion to Twentieth and Early Twenty-First Century Urban Design is a fully illustrated descriptive and explanatory history of the development of urban design ideas and paradigms of the past 150 years. The ideas and projects, hypothetical and built, range in scale from the city to the urban block level. The focus is on where the generic ideas originated, the projects that were designed following their precepts, the functions they address and/or afford and what we can learn from them. The morphology of a city, its built environment, evolves unselfconsciously as private and governmental investors self-consciously erect buildings and infrastructure in a pragmatic piecemeal manner to meet their own ends. Philosophers, novelists, architects and social scientists have produced myriad ideas about the nature of the built environment that they consider to be superior to those forms resulting from a laissez-faire attitude to urban development. Rationalist theorists dream of ideal futures based on assumptions about what is good; empiricists draw inspirations from what they perceive to be working well in existing situations. Both groups have presented their advocacies in manifestoes and often in the form of generic solutions or illustrative designs. This book traces the history of these ideas and will become a standard

Ecological Urbanism: The Nature of the City Susannah Hagan,2014-09-15 Ecological Urbanism The Nature of the City asks the questions that are important inside and outside the built environment professions what are climate change urbanisation and ecology doing to the theory and practice of urban design How does Ecological Urbanism figure in this change What is Ecological Urbanism In answer this book is neither definitive impossible when a subject is still in motion nor encyclopaedic equally impossible when so much has been written on almost every aspect of these essays Instead it seeks to rebalance the ecological narrative and its embryonic modes of practice with the narratives of urbanism and its older deeply embedded modes of practice It examines the implications for cities and the designers of cities now we are required to again address their metabolic as well as social and formal dimensions and it explores the extent to which environmental engineering and natural systems design can and should become drivers for the remaking of cities in the 21st century Above all it argues that sooner rather than later urbanism needs to become environmentally literate and environmental design needs to become culturally literate

Urban Design Jon Lang, 2017-03-31 Urban Design A Typology of Procedures and Products 2nd Edition provides a comprehensive and accessible introduction to urban design defining the field and addressing the controversies and goals of urban design Including over 50 updated international case studies this new edition presents a three dimensional model with which to categorize the processes and products involved product type paradigm type and procedural type The case studies not only illuminate the typology but provide information that designers can use as precedents in their own work Uniquely these case study projects are framed by the design paradigm employed categorized by procedural type instead of instrumental or land use function The categories used here are Total Urban Design All of a piece Urban Design Plug in Urban Design and Piece by piece Urban Design Written for both professionals and those encountering urban design in their day to day life Urban Design is an essential introduction to the field and practice considering the future direction of the field and what can be learned from the past

Green Wedge Urbanism Fabiano Lemes de Oliveira, 2017-02-23 As towns and cities worldwide deal with fast increasing land pressures while also trying to promote more sustainable connected communities the creation of green spaces within urban areas is receiving greater attention than ever before At the same time the value of the green belt as the most prominent model of green space planning is being widely questioned and an array of alternative models are being proposed This book explores one of those alternative models the green wedge showing how this offers a successful model for integrating urban development and nature in existing and new towns and cities around the world Green wedges considered here as ducts of green space running from the countryside into the centre of a city or town are not only making a comeback in urban planning but they have a deeper history in the twentieth century than many expect a history that provides valuable insight and lessons in the employment of networked green spaces in city design and regional planning today Part history and part contemporary argument this book first examines the emergence and global diffusion of the green wedge in town planning in the late 19th and early 20th centuries placing it in the broader historic context of debates and ideas for urban planning with nature before going on to explore its use in contemporary urban practice Examining their relation to green infrastructures landscape ecology and landscape urbanism and their potential for sustainable cities it highlights the continued relevance of a historic idea in an era of rapid climate change British Built Lucy Bullivant, 2005-09-22 For a while now the Young British Artists have been soaking up the international limelight thanks to a sensibility that is at once outrageous and thoughtful Architecture of course always takes a while to catch up to the other arts but now finally Britain has emerged as one of the world's most fertile breeding grounds for international design talent Catalyzed by such leading international architecture schools as the Architectural Association and the Bartlett a new wave of architects from home and abroad is combining local and global styles in exciting new buildings and projects Post Imperial British designers are indeed synthesizing foreign cultures with Western conditions in an entirely original way Profiling Britain's most dynamic and intriguing practices British Built features projects by S333 Caruso St John Alison Brooks Foreign Office Architects FOA muf Allford Hall Monaghan Morris Gollifer Langston de Rijke Marsh Morgan dRMM Kathryn Findlay FAT Adjaye Associates Sergison Bates Klein Dytham Architects KDa and Deborah Saunt David Hills Architects British Built the sequel to our successful SuperDutch includes studio profiles and essays outlining the unique characteristics of the British architect working today and presenting an even younger generation of architects whose stars are only just appearing on the horizon including atopia softroom dECOi and Tonkin Liu among many others
