

a) Nominal – classifies elements into two or more categories or classes, the numbers indicating that the elements are different but not according to order or magnitude

Ex: Gender, Marital status, state of residence, college major, SSN, zip code, student ID

b) Ordinal – a scale that ranks individual in terms of the degree to which they possess a characteristic of interest

Ex: Miss America Results, military rank, letter grade in class, degrees held, medical condition

c) Interval – in addition to ordering scores from high to low, it also establishes a uniform unit in the scale so that any equal distance between two scores is of equal magnitude. There is no absolute zero in this scale

-This has an arbitrary zero point (no true meaningful zero point)

Ex: -3 -2 -1 0 1 2 3, current temperature, many behavioral science questionnaires, IQ

d) Ratio – in addition to being an interval scale, it also has an absolute zero.

-The scale has a true, meaningful zero point that anchors the scale

Ex: Weight of a package of candy, Number of times you return to a restaurant after visiting it the first time, amount of money in your checking account, number of questions correct on a quiz, distance from San Antonio to Laredo

\hat{p}	← proportion →	p
n	← size →	N

MEASURES OF CENTRAL TENDENCY

-To describe a whole set of data with a single value that represents the middle or centre of its distribution is the purpose of measure of central tendency (measures of centre or central location).

-To put in other words, it is a way to describe the center of a data set.

-It lets us know what is normal or 'average' for a set of data.

-It also condenses the data set down to one representative value, which is useful when you are working with large amounts of data

MEAN

-The mean by definition is the sum of all the values in the observation or a dataset divided by the total number of observations. This is also known as the arithmetic average.

-The mean can be used for both continuous and discrete numeric data as well as for categorical data, as the values cannot be summed.

-As the mean includes every value in the distribution

Example:
 A dataset with 10 observations: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10.
 The mean is calculated as follows:

$$\text{Mean} = \frac{1 + 2 + 3 + 4 + 5 + 6 + 7 + 8 + 9 + 10}{10} = \frac{55}{10} = 5.5$$

Sample	Population
\bar{x}	μ
s	σ
\hat{p}	p
n	N

MEAN

The mean is the most common measure of central tendency. It is calculated by summing all the values in a dataset and dividing by the number of observations. The mean is sensitive to outliers, which can pull the mean in their direction. For example, in a dataset of incomes, a few very high incomes can significantly increase the mean income.
