Governance for Sustainable Development Jens Newig, Jan-Peter Voß, Jochen Monstadt, 2013-09-13 Sustainable development stirs up debate about the capacities of political steering and governance The complexity of the task expounds limits of steering in three dimensions goals knowledge and power Sustainability goals are subject to changing and controversial risk perceptions values and interests Moreover knowledge of the coupled dynamics of society technology and nature is limited Finally the power to shape structural change in society and technology is distributed across a multitude of actors and societal subsystems Steering attempts therefore have to cope with conflict and ambivalence with uncertainty and with a lack of central control and they have to face the necessity of coordinating different actor groups and social networks This volume explores steering strategies and governance arrangements for sustainable development with a view to these problem dimensions The contributions by authors from various disciplines approach these challenges from different conceptual angles ranging from positivist managerial up to post modern constructivist perspectives By combining theoretical reflections with insights from empirical research in European and American contexts the volume maps out conditions and identifies approaches which both reflect the limits of steering and reveal options for constructively taking up the task of sustainable development in science and practice

Vinke-de Kruijf,Gül Özerol,Hans Th. A. Bressers,2013-05-29 In an increasingly global community of researchers and practitioners new technologies and communication means have made the transfer of policies from one country or region to another progressively more prevalent There has been a lot of attention in the field of public administration paid to policy transfer and institutional transplantation This book aims to create a better understanding of such transfers in the water management sector These include the adoption of modern water management concepts such as integrated water resources management and forms of water governance which are strongly promoted and sometimes also imposed by various international organizations Transfers also occur within the scope of development aid or for the purpose of creating business opportunities In addition many research organisations consultancies and governmental agencies are involved in cross border work The purpose of this book is therefore to present practical examples of the transfer of modern water management from one locality to another and to critically discuss the transferability of policy and governance concepts by analysing the contextual needs and factors Case studies are included from North America Europe the Middle East and Asia It is argued that in many cases context matters in water management and that there is no panacea or universal concept that can be applied to all countries or regions with different political economic cultural and technological contexts Yet it is also shown that some countries are facing pressing and similar water management issues that cut across national borders and hence the transfer of knowledge may be beneficial
