Governing Through Markets Forest Certification And The Emergence Of Non State Authority:

Governing Through Markets Benjamin William Cashore, Graeme Auld, Deanna Newsom, 2004-01-01 In this important book Lawrence Sager a leading constitutional theorist offers a lucid understanding and compelling defence of American constitutional practice Sager treats judges as active partners in the enterprise of securing the fundamentals of political justice and sees the process of constitutional adjudication as a promising and distinctly democratic addition to that enterprise But his embrace of the constitutional judiciary is not unqualified Judges in Sager's view should and do stop short of enforcing the whole of the Constitution and the Supreme Court should welcome rather than condemn the efforts of Congress to pick up the slack Among the surprising fruit of this justice seeking account of American constitutional practice are a persuasive case for the constitutional right to secure a materially decent life and sympathy for the obduracy of the Constitution to amendment No book can end debate in this conceptually tumultuous area but Justice in Plainclothes is likely to help shape the ongoing debate for years to come

Speaking Private Authority Roberto J. Flores, 2020-05-26 Speaking Private Authority The Construction of Sustainability in Forests and Fisheries expands upon current understandings of the emergent global phenomenon that is private authority As private authority is becoming increasingly important in the conduct of global governance broadening our collective understanding of it will prove beneficial Roberto J Flores argues that private actors are not simply outgrowths of existent social structures or material conditions rather they are purposive agents strategically pursuing an agenda Therefore explaining private authority requires an examination of the constitutive elements that underlie this social phenomenon to which the author applies an analytical framework that combines social network theory with discourse analysis The author applies these tools to two cases taken from the environmental sector forests and fisheries and finds that as environmental politics takes on an increasingly networked character the actors that are best able to generate and wield private authority are those that strategically place themselves in between networks through the construction of discursive nodal points around which competing actors are forced to converge at the level of identity The case studies specifically look at how particular actors leveraged construction of the sustainable development concept in order to strategically place themselves in advantageous positions for exercising private authority
