Anglin, 1993-05-17 Nurses and social workers who work in urban hospital emergency departments frequently encounter youths who are involved in gang violence and substance abuse who are depressed who have attempted suicide or who have been sexually assaulted Youth workers and probation officers need to recognize the multiple problems in which their charges may be involved such as sexual risk taking substance abuse delinquency and violence This handbook provides all the information necessary for all professionals working with adolescents to understand and recognize their major psychosocial problems Each chapter is written by an experienced clinician or research scientist who is a recognized expert in his or her field Topics include family problems substance abuse head injury attention deficit hyperactivity disorder depression suicide gang involvement antisocial behavior reproductive health sexual and physical abuse eating disorders and psychosis     Standardized Evaluation in Clinical Practice Michael B. First, 2008-05-20 In clinical settings clinicians continue to underutilize interviews and rating scales because their benefits are underappreciated and their use is perceived as too costly and time consuming Augmenting the broad information contained in the APA's Handbook of Psychiatric Measures this in depth guide examines the real world issues involved in implementing measures in actual clinical settings This book Asserts that the use of structured diagnostic interviews in clinical settings is justified suggesting that it would be most cost effective to target research assessment toward those groups most difficult to evaluate and most likely to be misdiagnosed especially those whose misdiagnosis leads to consumption of a greater than expected amount of treatment resources Focuses on the underrecognition and underreporting of diagnostic comorbidity discussing the daunting practical issues of using comprehensive structured interviews and suggesting instead that a self administered questionnaire be used to screen for the most common DSM IV Axis I disorders Considers the use of structured interviews administered by either lay interviewers or by computer in the diagnostic assessment of children and adolescents making a case that using the research model i e reliable measures that can be given to large numbers of subjects in clinical settings meets the cost efficiency requirements of understaffed clinical providers Discusses the utility and limitations of research instruments for crucially important clinical purposes determining suicide risk and presents the inherent difficulties in predicting risk and explore the underlying clinical risk factors based on their proposed stress diathesis model Presents the issues and challenges involved in the U S Department of Veteran s Affairs VA attempt to implement a national program requiring the routine use of the GAF scale The authors conclude with a discussion of the reasons why the Global Assessment of Functioning GAF scale was chosen software and procedures methods to ensure system compliance and the specific measures taken by two VA networks that helped improve its implementation It is a groundbreaking guide that details the pros and cons of using structured interviews and rating scales in clinical settings to ensure reliable and valid assessment of diagnoses symptoms and outcomes     The

New Psychology of Health Catherine Haslam, Jolanda Jetten, Tegan Cruwys, Genevieve Dingle, S. Alexander
Haslam, 2018-05-01 British Psychology Society Textbook of the Year 2020 Why do people who are more socially connected live longer and have better health than those who are socially isolated Why are social ties at least as good for your health as not smoking having a good diet and taking regular exercise Why is treatment more effective when there is an alliance between therapist and client Until now researchers and practitioners have lacked a strong theoretical foundation for answering such questions This ground breaking book fills this gap by showing how social identity processes are key to understanding and effectively managing a broad range of health related problems Integrating a wealth of evidence that the authors and colleagues around the world have built up over the last decade The New Psychology of Health provides a powerful framework for reconceptualising the psychological dimensions of a range of conditions including stress trauma ageing depression addiction eating behaviour brain injury and pain Alongside reviews of current approaches to these various issues each chapter provides an in depth analysis of the ways in which theory and practice can be enriched by attention to social identity processes Here the authors show not only how an array of social and structural factors shape health outcomes through their impact on group life but also how this analysis can be harnessed to promote the delivery of social cures in a range of fields This is a must have volume for service providers practitioners students and researchers working in a wide range of disciplines and fields and will also be essential reading for anyone whose goal it is to improve the health and well being of people and communities in their care
