Godly Things Museums Objects And Religion:

Godly Things Crispin Paine, 2000-01-01 Although museums and art galleries are often compared in role and function to shrines and temples religion itself has mostly been ignored in museums even those displaying works originally created for purely religious purposes In recent years however there has been increased interest in the study of spiritual values particularly those of non Western cultures Fourteen contributors from museums and universities worldwide look at the themes and artifacts of religion and examine how museums handle and present this subject which although often difficult to grasp has pervaded every human society The first three chapters examine from different perspectives the principal religious themes and rituals Then a series of chapters looks at how religions from Methodism to Voodoo have been presented in museums from Belfast to Taiwan This book will be essential reading for all who work in museums as curators conservators or exhibition designers it will be equally important for students of religion art history and cultural Religious Objects in

Museums Crispin Paine, 2020-05-14 In the past museums often changed the meaning of icons or statues of deities from sacred to aesthetic or used them to declare the superiority of Western society or simply as cultural and historical evidence The last generation has seen faith groups demanding to control their objects and curators recognising that objects can only be understood within their original religious context In recent years there has been an explosion of interest in the role religion plays in museums with major exhibitions highlighting the religious as well as the historical nature of objects Using examples from all over the world Religious Objects in Museums is the first book to examine how religious objects are transformed when they enter the museum and how they affect curators and visitors It examines the full range of meanings that religious objects may bear as scientific specimen sacred icon work of art or historical record Showing how objects may be used to argue a point tell a story or promote a cause may be worshipped ignored or seen as dangerous or unlucky this highly accessible book is an essential introduction to the subject Museums of World Religions Charles

Orzech, 2020-05-14 Critically examining the notion of world religions Charles D Orzech compares five purpose built museums of world religions and their online extensions Inspired by the 19th and 20th century discipline of comparative religion these museums seek to promote religious tolerance by representing religious diversity and by arguing for underlying kinship among religions From locations in Europe Marburg Glasgow and St Petersburg to North America Quebec to Asia Taipei each museum advances a particular cultural history This book shows how the curation of the objects they contain shapes public perceptions of religion giving material form to the discourses about religion and world religions Raising important questions about religion and secularity museum displays and religious piety Museums of World Religions questions the ideology that informs these museums Building on recent anthropological work on the agency of religious objects the author critiques these museums and suggests new approaches to displaying the matter of religion Religion in Museums Gretchen

Museums, Equality and Social Justice Richard Sandell, Eithne Nightingale, 2013-05-20 The last two decades have seen concerns for equality diversity social justice and human rights move from the margins of museum thinking and practice to the core The arguments both moral and pragmatic for engaging diverse audiences creating the conditions for more equitable access to museum resources and opening up opportunities for participation now enjoy considerable consensus in many parts of the world A growing number of institutions are concerned to construct new narratives that represent a plurality of lived experiences histories and identities which aim to nurture support for more progressive ethically informed ways of seeing and to actively inform contemporary public debates on often contested rights related issues At the same time it would be misleading to suggest an even and uncontested transition from the museum as an organisation that has been widely understood to marginalise exclude and oppress to one which is wholly inclusive Moreover there are signs that momentum towards making museums more inclusive and equitable is slowing down or in some contexts reversing Museums Equality and Social Justice aims to reflect on and crucially to inform debates in museum research policy and practice at this critical time It brings together new research from academics and practitioners and insights from artists activists and commentators to explore the ways in which museums galleries and heritage organisations are engaging with the fast changing equalities terrain and the shifting politics of identity at global national and local levels and to investigate their potential to contribute to more equitable fair and just societies The Changing World Religion Map Stanley D. will help fill this gap in the literature and attempt to answer questions such as Is there really such a thing as a European model of society Do the economic and political integration processes of the European Union also imply convergence in more general aspects of social life like family or religious behaviour What do the societies of Western Europe have in common with those further to the east This series will cover the main social institutions although not every author will cover the full range of European countries As well as surveying existing knowledge in a way that will be useful to students each book will also seek to contribute to our growing knowledge of what remains in many respects a sociologically unknown continent

Global Heritage, Religion, and Secularism Trinidad Rico, 2021-12-16 Religion and spirituality have been scarcely addressed in heritage preservation history discourse and practice More recently increased interest in the intersections between the study of religion and heritage preservation in both academic studies and institutional initiatives highlight obstacles that the field has yet to overcome theoretically and methodologically This Element surveys the convergences of religious and heritage traditions It argues that the critical heritage turn has not adequately considered the legacy of secularism that underpins the history and contemporary practices of heritage preservation This omission is what has left the field of heritage studies ill equipped to support the study and management of a heritage of religion broadly construed

Museums and Truth Annette B. Fromm, Viv Golding, Per B. Rekdal, 2014-10-16 Museums are usually seen as arenas for the authorised presentations of reality based on serious professional knowledge Yet in spite of the impossibility of giving anything but a highly abstract and extremely selective impression in an exhibition very few museums problematize this or discuss their priorities with their public They don t ask what are the other truths of the matter Though the essays in this collection are not written with museums and truth as their explicit subject they highlight contested truths the absence of the truth of the underprivileged whether one truth is more worthy than the other and whether lesser truths can dilute the value of greater truths One of the articles included here lets youngsters choose which truth is most probable or just while another talks about an exhibition where the public must choose which truth to adhere to before entering One shows how a political change gives a new opportunity to finally restore valuable truths of the past to the present and another describes the highly dangerous task of making museums and memorials for the truths of the oppressed Lastly one explores whether we live in a period where the sources for authorized truths are fragmented and questioned and asks what should the consequences for museums be
