Links to the Diasporic Homeland Russell King, Anastasia Christou, Peggy Levitt, 2015-10-14 This book examines return mobilities to and from ancestral homelands of the second generation and beyond It presents cutting edge empirical research framed within the mobilities transnational and return migration diaspora paradigms on a trans local and global scale The book is unique in presenting not only a variety of return movements including short term visits and longer term return migrations but also circulatory movements within transnational social fields while engaging with notions of home belonging identity and generation The individual contributions range widely over different ethnic national regional and global settings including Europe North America the Caribbean the Gulf and Africa The result is a remapping of the conceptualisation of diaspora and of the role of successive generations in the diasporic experience as well as a nuancing of the concepts of return migration and transnationalism by their extension to the second and subsequent generations of immigrants This book was originally published as a special issue of Mobilities

Remigration to Post-Socialist Europe Caroline Hornstein Tomic, Robert Pichler, Sarah Scholl-Schneider, 2018 Returning migrants have been involved in post socialist transformation processes all across Eastern and Southeastern Europe Engaged in politics the economy science and education arts and civil society return migrants have often exerted crucial influence on state and nation building processes and on social and cultural transformations However remigration not only comprises stories of achievements but equally those of failed integration marginalization non participation and lost potential these are mostly stories untold The contributions to this volume shed light on processes of return migration to various Eastern and Southeastern European countries from multidisciplinary perspectives Particular attention is paid to anthropological approaches that aim to understand the complexities of return migration from individual perspectives

Multidisciplinary Representations of Home and Homeland in Diaspora Jean Amato, Kyunghye Pyun, 2024-12-20 This collection explores our fascination with homes across time cultures and disciplines while unpacking the relationship between private yearning and public belonging illustrating the limitations and fluidity of identity and affiliation through the idea of homes and ancestral homelands While rooted in comparative literature and critical art history in the context of diaspora studies the book s approach intersects with cultural geography gender and sexuality studies critical race theory architecture urban studies film studies nationalism postcolonial theory sociology and migration studies Conceived as relational and changing the collection emphasizes that home homeland studies are plural and fluctuating concepts encompassing multi local affiliations places gender roles languages practices relations and power In this tangled site of contesting national discourses affiliations nostalgias and ideologies we can uncover valuable insight into how we construct the story of ourselves through traveling bodies spaces homes and mixed geographies

Mobilities of Return John Taylor, Helen Lee, 2017-12-15 In recent decades the term mobility has emerged as a defining paradigm within the humanities For scholars engaged in the multidisciplinary topics and perspectives now often embraced by the term Pacific

Studies it has been a much more longstanding and persistent concern Even so specific questions regarding mobilities of return that is the movement of people back to places that are designated however ambiguously or ambivalently as home have tended to take a back seat within more recent discussions of mobility transnationalism and migration This volume situates return mobility as a starting point for understanding the broader context and experience of human mobility community and identity in the Pacific region and beyond Through diverse case studies spanning the Pacific region it demonstrates the extent to which the prospect and practice of returning home or of navigating returns between multiple homes is a central rather than peripheral component of contemporary Pacific Islander mobilities and identities everywhere

Diasporic Mobilities on Vacation Lauren B. Wagner, 2023-04-26 Diasporic Mobilities on Vacation is a nuanced exploration of the embodied and affective practices of Moroccans from Europe visiting Morocco for summer vacation Rather than characterizing them as uncomfortably split between homelands this book focuses on how their touristic leisure practices create their own space of diasporic belonging An expert on Moroccan diaspora communities and mobile lifestyles the book draws on multi sited and mobile ethnographic research to take the reader along on the journey home and experience the daily lives of diasporic visitors Their practices activities and encounters on vacation offer insights into larger issues of class leisure consumption and transnational belonging in South to North migration contexts Concretely the book shows how these holiday encounters simultaneously generate integration into Morocco for migrant descendants who can feel at home in this homeland and differentiation from others in how they embody Moroccaness as social and material actors This book shows how seemingly frivolous practices of leisure have material consequences for individuals who belong across homelands Positioned at the intersection of migration studies leisure and tourism mobilities and ethnomethodology and practice theory this book is a worthwhile read for scholars and students indeed anyone questioning or experiencing problems of belonging in transnational and diasporic contexts

The "Return" of British-Born Cypriots to Cyprus Janine Teerling, 2014-10-20 The post war decades of the 1950s to the 1970s saw a mass migration from Cyprus to the UK More recent years however have witnessed a return to Cyprus of the British born children of Cypriot migrants in the UK Drawing on multi site fieldwork and adopting a life narrative approach this book offers a refreshing and contemporary account of the motives experiences and life views of these second generation British Cypriots as they choose to build their lives in their parents birth country a Cyprus that has been dramatically altered by globalisation mass tourism and immigration since the first generation of immigrants left for British shores Unlike their parents who moved from Cyprus to the UK mainly out of economic necessity this new generation of migrants tends to view their relocation to Cyprus as a lifestyle choice And while the first generation of Cypriot migrants in the UK generally worked and socialised within the bounds of the Cypriot community the British born return migrants in Cyprus embrace a more international lifestyle beyond primordial ethnic or national boundaries observations which challenge the hypothesis that second generation return migration is based on an essential longing to go back to one s roots The author

Roots Quest Jackie Hogan, 2019-01-15 America is in the midst of a genealogy boom In the last thirty years the number of Americans who said they were very interested in family history jumped from 29% to 87% Online genealogy sites like Ancestry.com went from being a small genealogical research website into a NASDAQ listed corporation with more than two million subscribers In Roots Quest sociologist Jackie Hogan digs into this genealogy boom to ask why we are so interested in our family history She goes beyond simple demographics retiring baby boomers with more time on their hands to show that the surging popularity of genealogy is in part a response to some of the large scale social changes transforming our lives such as the increasingly virtual nature of social life and the sense of rootlessness these transformations provoke Roots Quest explores the way our increasingly rootless society fuels the quest for authenticity for deep history and for an elemental sense of belonging for roots
