As if she didn't already have enough questions about her mother's suicide, Tish is forced to confront one more. She is renovating a northern Michigan log cabin, one in which she spent her childhood summers. But what she finds doesn't speak of carefree vacations in the woods; a torn photo of her mother with the words "don't ask why" written across her face. Tish must put the pieces all together or risk losing everything, including her life. This time she chooses a small town in Michigan with a dilapidated Victorian that challenges her imagination. But Tish's idyllic small town dream fizzles when she finds more in the creepy basement than what was revealed on the seller's disclosure: what looks like traces of foul play. With a hovering police officer living next door and a possible love interest just two doors down, Tish has her hands full. Will she discover the truth before it's too late? Library Journal, 2008
