The Grizzly King a Romance of the Wild (Classic Reprint) James Oliver Curwood,2017-10-11 Excerpt from The Grizzly King a Romance of the Wild A confession and a hope the confession of one who for years hunted and killed before he learned that the wild offered a more thrilling sport than slaughter and the hope that what I have written may make others feel and understand that the greatest thrill of the hunt is not in killing but in letting live It is true that in the great open spaces one must kill to live one must have meat and meat is life But killing for food is not the lust of slaughter it is not the lust which always recalls to me that day in the British Columbia mountains when in less than two hours I killed four grizzlies on a mountain slide a destruction of possibly a hundred and twenty years of life in a hundred and twenty minutes And that is only one instance of many in which I now regard myself as having been almost a criminal for killing for the excitement of killing About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

last of spring and the first of summer in the northern mountains were commingling The earth was bursting with green the early flowers were turning the sunny slopes into coloured splashes of red and white and purple and everything that had life was singing the fat whistlers on their rocks the pompous little gophers on their mounds the big bumblebees that buzzed from flower to flower the hawks in the valley and the eagles over the peaks Even Thor was singing in his way for as he had paddled through the soft mud a few minutes before he had rumbled curiously deep down in his great chest It was not a growl or a roar or a snarl it was the noise he made when he was contented It was his song And now for some mysterious reason there had suddenly come a change in this wonderful day for him Motionless he still sniffed the wind It puzzled him It disquieted him without alarming him To the new and strange smell that was in the air he was as keenly sensitive as a child s tongue to the first sharp touch of a drop of brandy And then at last a low and sullen growl came like a distant roll of thunder from out of his chest He was overlord of these domains and slowly his brain told him that there should be no smell which he could not comprehend and of which he was not the master Thor reared up slowly until the whole nine feet of him rested on his haunches and he sat like a trained dog with his great forefeet heavy with mud drooping in front of his chest For ten years he had lived in these mountains and never had he smelled that smell He defied it He waited for it while it came stronger and nearer He did not hide himself Clean cut and unafraid he stood up He was a monster in size and his new June coat shone a golden brown in the sun His forearms were almost as large as a man s body the three largest of his five knifelike claws were five and a half inches long in the mud his feet had left tracks that were fifteen inches from tip to tip He was fat and sleek and powerful His eyes no larger than hickory nuts were eight inches apart His two upper fangs sharp as stiletto points were as long as a man s thumb and between his great jaws he could crush the neck of a caribou Thor s life had been free of the presence of man and he was not ugly Like most grizzlies he did not kill for the pleasure of killing Out of a herd he would take one caribou and he would eat that caribou to the marrow in the last bone He was a peaceful king He had one law Let me alone he said and the voice of that law was in his attitude as he sat on his haunches sniffing the strange smell In his massive strength in his aloneness and his supremacy the great bear was like the mountains unrivalled in the valleys as they were in the skies With the mountains he had come down out of the ages He was part of them The history of his race had begun and was dying among them and they were alike in many ways Until this day he could not remember when anything had come to question his might and his right except those of his own kind With such rivals he had fought fairly and more than once to the death He was ready to fight again if it came to a question of sovereignty over the ranges which he claimed as his own Until he was beaten he was dominator arbiter and despot if he chose to be He was dynast of the rich valleys and the green slopes and liege lord of all living things about him He had won and kept these things openly without strategy or treachery He was hated and he was feared but he was without hatred or fear of his own and he was honest Therefore he waited openly for the strange thing that was coming to him from down the valley
