Global warming is an issue that transcends the geographical and political boundaries of Nation States and one which requires a cooperative global response if we are to preserve the Earth's atmosphere for future generations. Ten years ago the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) attempted to secure the commitment of all nations to legally binding emissions targets with the 1997 Kyoto Protocol but in late 2007 an agreement has still not been reached. This demonstrates the ineffectiveness of the current international framework to address issues such as climate change based on the dominance of attitudes rooted in Realism political theory among nation states that favour national interest over international cooperation. The refusal of some of the world's major emitters such as the USA and Australia to ratify the Kyoto Protocol exhibits the Realist traits of governments that prioritise immediate economic security of their nation over transnational co-operation promoted by alternative branches of Liberalism political theory such as Neo-Liberal Institutionalism and Neo-
