briefly recapitulating and describing the discoveries made since its appearance On this account we have followed a geographical rather than a chronological system of arrangement but at the same time the attempt has been made to suggest to the mind of the reader the historical sequence of events At no period have excavations been pursued with more energy and activity both in Egypt and Western Asia than at the present time and every season's work obliges us to modify former theories and extends our knowledge of periods of history which even ten years ago were unknown to the historian For instance a whole chapter has been added to Egyptian history by the discovery of the Neolithic culture of the primitive Egyptians while the recent excavations at Susa are revealing a hitherto totally unsuspected epoch of proto Elamite civilization Further than this we have discovered the relics of the oldest historical kings of Egypt and we are now enabled to reconstitute from material as yet unpublished the inter relations of the early dynasties of Babylon Important discoveries have also been made with regard to isolated points in the later historical periods We have therefore attempted to include the most important of these in our survey of recent excavations and their results We would again remind the reader that Prof Maspero's great work must be consulted for the complete history of the period the present volume being not a connected history of Egypt and Western Asia but a description and discussion of the manner in which recent discovery and research have added to and modified our conceptions of ancient Egyptian and Mesopotamian civilization
