Jazz In The Bittersweet Blues:

Jazz In The Bittersweet Blues Of Life Wynton Marsalis, Carl Vigeland, 2002-07-11 The thrill of sitting in a club or concert hall hearing jazz being made is familiar to most fans But what if you could immerse yourself in the world of the musician where creating and performing is a profound task and yet as routine as breathing When writer Carl Vigeland was invited to tour with Wynton Marsalis and his septet he was able to do just that Vigeland's acute observations sweep us into their world as he becomes virtually part of the band At the same time Marsalis offers intimate meditations on home family creation and performance written in the cadence of his inimitable voice Set on the stage in the studio and in great cities and small towns around the world this richly textured narrative explores how the music is made in America today How Writing Touches Ken Gale, Larry Russell, Jonathan Wyatt, 2012-01-17 Five scholars met as writers at a workshop at the 2007 International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry and made a commitment to write over the following year to for and with each other It became an experiment in the craft of autoethnography exploring questions of intimacy and connection manifested through collaborative writing Each year since then the authors have returned to the Congress to read a small anthology of the year's writing and to decide whether or not to continue This book covers the first two years of that writing offering stories of how writing touches how it writes bodies into being and in between It is an affecting radical work exploring love and intimacy as scholarly messy complex methodology writing that often affirms and sometimes disturbs Critical Ethnography D. Soyini Madison, 2011-07-13 The revised Second Edition of Critical Ethnography guides readers through theories methods and ethics of ethnographic research creating a confidence to complete fieldwork while demonstrating analytical and theoretical depth This text highlights the productive links between theory and method and how both become more valuable as they interact through fieldwork Theoretical concepts range from queer theory feminist theory and critical race theory to Marxism and phenomenology The methodological techniques range from designing and asking in depth interview questions and developing rapport to coding and interpreting data The various theories and methods culminate in three fictional ethnographic case studies that guide readers on how to incorporate theoretical concepts with their interpretations and data analysis Ain't But a Few of Us Willard Jenkins, 2022-10-28 Despite the fact that most of jazz's major innovators and performers have been African American the overwhelming majority of jazz journalists critics and authors have been and continue to be white men No major mainstream jazz publication has ever had a black editor or publisher Ain't But a Few of Us presents over two dozen candid dialogues with black jazz critics and journalists ranging from Greg Tate Farah Jasmine Griffin and Robin D G Kelley to Tammy Kernodle Ron Welburn and John Murph They discuss the obstacles to access for black jazz journalists outline how they contend with the world of jazz writing dominated by white men and point out that these racial disparities are not confined to jazz but hamper their efforts at writing about other music genres as well Ain't But a Few of Us also includes an anthology section which reprints classic essays and articles from black

Music and History Stanley C. Pelkey, 2005 This book begins with a simple question Why haven t historians and musicologists been talking to one another Historians frequently look to all aspects of human activity including music in order to better understand the past Musicologists inquire into the social cultural and historical contexts of musical works and musical practices to develop theories about the meanings of compositions and the significance of musical creation Both disciplines examine how people represent their experiences This collection of original essays the first of its kind argues that the conversation between scholars in the two fields can become richer and more mutually informing The volume features an eloquent personal essay by historian Lawrence W Levine whose work has inspired a whole generation of scholars working on African American music in American history The first six essays address widely different aspects of musical culture and history ranging from women and popular song during the French Revolution to nineteenth century music publishing in Philadelphia Pennsylvania Two additional essays by scholars outside of musicology and history represent a new kind of disciplinary bridging by using the methods of cultural studies to look at cross dressing in nineteenth and early twentieth century opera and blues responses to lynching in the New South The last four essays offer models for collaborative multidisciplinary research with a special emphasis on popular music Jeffrey H Jackson Memphis Tennessee is assistant
