General Technical Report RMRS ,1998 The Northern Goshawk in Utah Russell T. Graham,1999 This assessment describes northern goshawk Accipiter gentilis habitat in the State of Utah Because of fire exclusion insect and disease epidemics timber harvest livestock grazing or a combination of these factors the forests and woodlands of Utah have changed drastically since the early 1900 s Forests are now dominated by mid and late successional species Douglas fir white fir and subalpine fir rather than the early successional species lodgepole and ponderosa pine Along with these changes came suspected declines in goshawk populations Goshawk habitat in Utah was assessed using potential vegetation types current vegetation types and expert knowledge Subalpine fir 17 percent and quaking aspen 10 percent potential vegetation types were the most common forest types in the State Nearly 95 percent of the subalpine fir potential vegetation type was rated as high or medium for nesting habitat while nearly 90 percent of the quaking aspen potential vegetation type was rated as high or medium for nesting Similarly combining nesting and foraging preferences 70 percent of the subalpine fir potential vegetation type is rated as either high value or optimum habitat In addition throughout Utah all of the high value habitats are well connected The present conditions of the forests and woodlands of Utah are prone to insect and disease epidemics in addition to the risk of stand replacing fires To ensure the goshawk s continued existence in Utah will require the restoration of these degraded habitats and the protection of native processes The Northern Goshawk in Utah ,1999 Single

Field Manual of Techniques in Invertebrate Pathology Lawrence A. Lacey, Harry K. Kaya, 2013-06-29 The 38 chapters of this Field Manual provide the tools required for planning experiments with entomopathogens and their implementation in the field Basic tools include chapters on the theory and practice of microbial control agents statistical design of experiments equipment and application strategies The major pathogen groups are covered in individual chapters virus bacteria protozoa fungi nematodes Subsequent chapters deal with the impact of naturally occurring and introduced exotic pathogens and inundative application of microbial control agents The largest section of the Manual is composed of 21 chapters on the application and evaluation of entomopathogens in a wide range of agricultural forest domestic and aquatic habitats Mites and slugs broaden the scope of the book Supplementary techniques and media for follow up laboratory studies are described Three final chapters cover the evaluation of Bt transgenic plants resistance to insect pathogens and strategies to manage it and guidelines for evaluating the effects of MCAs on nontarget organisms Readership Researchers graduate students practitioners of integrated pest management regulators those doing environmental impact studies The book is a stand alone reference but is also complementary to the laboratory oriented Manual of Techniques in Insect Pathology and similar comprehensive texts

USDA Forest Service Experimental Forests and Ranges Deborah C. Hayes, Susan L. Stout, Ralph H. Crawford, Anne P. Hoover, 2014-07-22 USDA Forest Service Experimental Forests and Ranges EFRs are scientific treasures providing secure protected research sites where complex and diverse ecological processes are studied over the long term This book offers several examples of the dynamic interactions among questions of public concern or policy EFR research and natural resource management practices and policies Often trends observed or expected in the early years of a research program are contradicted or confounded as the research record extends over decades The EFRs are among the few areas in the US where such long term research has been carried out by teams of scientists Changes in society s needs and values can also redirect research programs Each chapter of this book reflects the interplay between the ecological results that emerge from a long term research project and the social forces that influence questions asked and resources invested in ecological research While these stories include summaries and syntheses of traditional research results they offer a distinctly new perspective a larger and more complete picture than that provided by a more typical 5 year study They also provide examples of long term research on EFRs that have provided answers for questions not even imagined at the time the study was installed Chequamegon-Nicolet

Management-oriented Classification of Pinyon-Juniper Woodlands of the Great Basin Neil E. West,Robin J.

Tausch,Paul T. Tueller,1998 A hierarchical framework for the classification of Great Basin pinyon juniper woodlands was based on a systematic sample of 426 stands from a random selection of 66 of the 110 mountain ranges in the region That is mountain ranges were randomly selected but stands were systematically located on mountain ranges The National Hierarchical Framework of Ecological Units ECOMAP was used for the highest levels of classification subdividing the Great Basin into nine relatively environmentally homogeneous Sections The remaining levels are vegetation based focusing on the relative composition and dominance of pinyon and juniper and the dominant shrub and perennial grass species present This approach will allow managers to better relate the results of previous as well as new studies and management experiences
