considering where and why individual interests conflict using well documented murder cases This book attempts to understand normal social motives in murder as products of the process of evolution by natural selection They note that the implications for psychology are many and profound touching on such matters as parental affection and rejection sibling rivalry sex differences in interests and inclinations social comparison and achievement motives our sense of justice lifespan developmental changes in attitudes and the phenomenology of the self This is the first volume of its kind to analyze homicides in the light of a theory of interpersonal conflict Before this study no one had compared an observed distribution of victim killer relationships to expected distribution nor asked about the patterns of killer victim age disparities in familial killings This evolutionary psychological approach affords a deeper view and understanding of homicidal violence
