

A titrimetric analysis requires the careful addition of titrant.

Experiment 9

A Volumetric Analysis

- To prepare and standardize a sodium hydroxide solution
- To determine the molar concentration of a strong acid

OBJECTIVES

The following techniques are used in the Experimental Procedure:

TECHNIQUES

A chemical analysis that is performed primarily with the aid of volumetric glassware (e.g., pipets, burets, volumetric flasks) is called a volumetric analysis. For a volumetric analysis procedure, a known quantity or a carefully measured amount of one substance reacts with a to-be-determined amount of another substance with the reaction occurring in aqueous solution. The volumes of all solutions are carefully measured with volumetric glassware.

The known amount of the substance for an analysis is generally measured and available in two ways:

1. As a primary standard—An accurate mass (and thus, moles) of a solid substance is measured on a balance, dissolved in water, and then reacted with the substance being analyzed.
2. As a standard solution—A measured number of moles of substance is present in a measured volume of solution, generally expressed as the molar concentration (or molarity) of the substance. A measured volume of the standard solution then reacts with the substance being analyzed.

The reaction of the known substance with the substance to be analyzed, occurring in aqueous solution, is generally conducted by a titration procedure.

The titration procedure requires a buret to dispense a liquid, called the titrant, into a flask containing the analyte (Figure 9.1a, page 134). For the acid–base titration studied in Part B of this experiment, the titrant is a standard solution of sodium hydroxide and the analyte is an acid.

INTRODUCTION

Primary standard: a substance that has a known high degree of purity, a relatively large molar mass, is nonhygroscopic, and reacts in a predictable way

Standard solution: a solution having a very well known concentration of a solute

Laboratory Manual for Principles of General Chemistry J. A. Beran, Mark Lassiter, 2022-08-16 Laboratory Manual for Principles of General Chemistry 11th Edition covers two semesters of a general chemistry laboratory program The material focuses on the lab experiences that reinforce the concepts that not all experimental conclusions are the same and depend on identifying an appropriate experimental procedure selecting the proper apparatus employing the proper techniques systematically analyzing and interpreting the data and minimizing inherent variables As a result of good data a scientific and analytical conclusion is made which may or may not be right but is certainly consistent with the data Experiments write textbooks textbooks don't write experiments A student's scientific literacy grows when experiences and observations associated with the scientific method are encountered Further experimentation provides additional cause effect observations leading to an even better understanding of the experiment The 11th edition's experiments are informative and challenging while offering a solid foundation for technique safety and experimental procedure The reporting and analysis of the data and the pre and post lab questions focus on the intuitiveness of the experiment The experiments may accompany any general chemistry textbook and are compiled at the beginning of each curricular unit An Additional Notes column is included in each experiment's Report Sheet to provide a space for recording observations and data during the experiment Continued emphasis on handling data is supported by the Data Analysis section
