Juries and the Transformation of Criminal Justice in France in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries James M. Donovan, 2010-02-01 James Donovan takes a comprehensive approach to the history of the jury in modern France by investigating the legal political sociocultural and intellectual aspects of jury trial from the Revolution through the twentieth century He demonstrates that these juries through their decisions helped shape reform of the nation's criminal justice system From their introduction in 1791 as an expression of the sovereignty of the people through the early 1900s argues Donovan juries often acted against the wishes of the political and judicial authorities despite repeated governmental attempts to manipulate their composition High acquittal rates for both political and nonpolitical crimes were in part due to juror resistance to the harsh and rigid punishments imposed by the Napoleonic Penal Code Donovan explains In response legislators gradually enacted laws to lower penalties for certain crimes and to give jurors legal means to offer nuanced verdicts and to ameliorate punishments Faced with persistently high acquittal rates however governments eventually took powers away from juries by withdrawing many cases from their purview and ultimately destroying the panels independence in 1941

The Hidden Hands of Justice Heidi Nichols Haddad, 2018-08-09 The Hidden Hands of Justice NGOs Human Rights and International Courts is the first comprehensive analysis of non governmental organization NGO participation at international criminal and human rights courts Drawing on original data Heidi Nichols Haddad maps and explains the differences in NGO participatory roles frequency and impact at three judicial institutions the European Court of Human Rights the Inter American Human Rights System and the International Criminal Court The Hidden Hands of Justice demonstrates that courts can strategically choose to enhance their functionality by allowing NGOs to provide needed information expertise and services as well as shame states for non cooperation Through participation NGOs can profoundly shape the character of international human rights justice but in doing so may consolidate civil society representation and relinquish their roles as external monitors

French Criminal Justice Jacqueline Hodgson, 2005-11-08 Basing much of its analysis upon the first systematic empirical study of the French pre trial process this monograph breaks new ground in the field of comparative criminal justice Moving away from idealised accounts of judicially supervised investigations it provides a better understanding of the ways in which an inquisitorially rooted criminal process operates in practice and the factors that influence and constrain its development and functioning The structure and operation of French criminal justice is set within a broad range of contexts of political occupational and legal cultures from the French Republican tradition of state centred models of authority across the growing influence of the ECHR to the local conditions which determine the ways in which individual discretion is exercised The French model of investigative supervision and accountability is contrasted with more adversarial procedures and in particular the different ways in which the reliability of evidence is guaranteed and the interests of the accused protected Systematic observation of the daily working practices of police gendarmes prosecutors and judges dissection across a number of sites and time periods provides a unique and detailed account of the ways in which the French criminal process operates in practice The understandings and insights generated from this data are then set within a wider legal and political analysis which considers issues such as the influence and interference of the State within matters of justice a comparative analysis of the judicial and defence functions and the extent to which ECHR fair trial guarantees are able to produce legal and ideological change within a process which depends upon a central and judicially supervised investigating authority An informed knowledge of other European criminal procedures is increasingly essential for those working within UK as well as comparative criminal justice if there is to be a proper engagement with and evaluation of measures such as the EUs proposed Council Framework Decision on Certain Procedural Rights in Criminal Proceedings throughout the European Union as well as recent legislative reform in England and Wales that seeks to adjust the pre trial roles of police and prosecutor in significant ways This book will be essential reading for teachers researchers students and policy makers working in the areas of criminal justice in the UK and across Europe in comparative criminal justice criminology as well as in French and European studies Restorative Justice

Today Lorenn Walker, 2012-08-17 Restorative Justice Today Applications of Restorative Interventions takes a hard look at the issues and concepts surrounding restorative justice and current restorative practices used in a broad range of areas today In a time when the cost of prisons and jails is on the rise resulting in more offenders being kept out of the community this timely and contemporary book exposes readers to a range of restorative practices that can be implemented The authors renowned experts in the area of restorative justice provide information not found in other restorative justice texts Victims and Restorative Justice Inge Vanfraechem, Daniela Bolívar Fernández, Ivo Aertsen, 2015-05-15 Restorative justice aims to address the consequences of crime by encouraging victims and offenders to communicate and discuss the harm caused by the crime that has been committed In the majority of cases restorative justice is facilitated by direct and indirect dialogue between victims and offenders but it also includes support networks and sometimes involves professionals such as police lawyers social workers or prosecutors and judges In theory the victim is a core participant in restorative justice and the restoration of the harm is a first concern In practice questions arise as to whether the victim is actively involved in the process what restoration may entail whether there is a risk of secondary victimisation and whether the victim is truly at the heart of the restorative response or whether the offender remains the focal point of attention Using a combination of victimological literature and empirical data from a European research project this book considers the role and the position of the victim in restorative justice practices focusing on legislative organisational and institutional frameworks of victim offender mediation and conferencing programmes at a national and local level as well as the victims personal needs and experiences The findings are essential reading for academics and students engaged in the study of justice victimology and law The publication will also be valuable to policymakers and professionals such as social workers lawyers and mediators The Justice of the Peace Reports ,1922
