Reading Acts William Shiell, 2021-11-15 William Shiell proposes that the book of Acts was performed orally by a lector in the early church following Greco Roman rhetorical conventions for recitation and delivery rather than directly read by an audience that was minimally literate Shiell's study outlines the function of the lector in Greco Roman times as a filter through which an audience would receive a text He describes the conventions for performers gestures facial expressions and vocal inflections found in material from Greco Roman literature and art that are mirrored in the book of Acts He examines how a reading of Acts in this light can fill interpretive gaps left by literary and rhetorical critical studies that focus on the reading rather than the hearing of biblical texts

A Companion to the Archaeology of Religion in the Ancient World Rubina Raja, Jörg Rüpke, 2020-01-09 A Companion to the Archaeology of Religion in the Ancient World presents a comprehensive overview of a wide range of topics relating to the practices expressions and interactions of religion in antiquity primarily in the Greco Roman world Features readings that focus on religious experience and expression in the ancient world rather than solely on religious belief Places a strong emphasis on domestic and individual religious practice Represents the first time that the concept of lived religion is applied to the ancient history of religion and archaeology of religion Includes cutting edge data taken from top contemporary researchers and theorists in the field Examines a large variety of themes and religious traditions across a wide geographical area and chronological span Written to appeal equally to archaeologists and historians of religion

Writing Around the Ancient Mediterranean Philippa M. Steele, Philip J. Boyes, 2022-10-06 Writing in the ancient Mediterranean existed against a backdrop of very high levels of interaction and contact In the societies around its shores writing was a dynamic practice that could serve many purposes from a tool used by elites to control resources and establish their power bases to a symbol of local identity and a means of conveying complex information and ideas This volume presents a group of papers by members of the Contexts of and Relations between Early Writing Systems CREWS research team and visiting fellows offering a range of different perspectives and approaches to problems of writing in the ancient Mediterranean They focus on practices viewing writing as something that people do within a wider social and cultural context and on adaptations considering the ways in which writing changed and was changed by the people using it

Lost Treasures of the Bible Clyde E. Fant, Mitchell G. Reddish, 2008-10-15 Lost Treasures of the Bible contains photographs and detailed descriptions of more than one hundred biblically significant archaeological objects housed in over twenty five museums worldwide Clyde Fant and Mitchell Reddish s selection of artifacts many of them relatively unknown illuminates the history culture and practices of the biblical world as a whole Each entry also explains that particular object s relevance for understanding the Bible and locates the artifact not only at its museum site but also by its specific identification number which is particularly valuable for smaller and lesser known objects true lost treasures

Gábor Hosszú, 2021-02-05 Scripts writing systems usually belong to specific languages and have temporal spatial and cultural characteristics The evolution of scripts has been the subject of research for a long time This is probably because the long term development of human thinking is reflected in the surviving script relics many of which are still undeciphered today The book presents the study of the script evolution with the mathematical tools of systematics phylogenetics and bioinformatics In the research described the script is the evolutionary taxonomic unit taxon which is analogous to the concept of biological species Among the methods of phylogenetics phenetics classifies the investigated taxa on the basis of their morphological similarity and does not primarily examine genealogical relationships Due to the scarcity of morphological diversity of scripts features random coincidences of evolution independent features are much more common in scripts than in biological species thus phenetic modelling based solely on morphological features can lead to erroneous results For this reason phenetic modeling has been extended with evolutionary considerations thereby allowing the modelling uncertainties observed in the script evolution to be addressed due to the large number of random coincidences homoplasies characterizing each script The book describes an extended phenetic method developed to investigate the script evolution This data driven approach helps to reduce the impact of the uncertainties inherent in the phenetic model due to the large number of homoplasies that occur during the evolution of scripts The elaborated phenetic and evolutionary analyses were applied to the Rovash scripts used on the Eurasian Steppe Grassland including the Turkic Rovash Turkic Runic runiform and the Székely Hungarian Rovash The evaluation of the extended phenetic model of the scripts the various phenograms the script spectra and the group spectra helped to reconstruct the main ancestors and evolutionary stages of the investigated scripts
