Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women. The program was designed to be safe and effective for women with no previous exercise experience. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The first session was a low-intensity aerobic workout, the second was a low-impact aerobic workout, and the third was a low-impact resistance workout. The program was evaluated using a variety of physical fitness tests, including heart rate, blood pressure, and body composition. The results of the study showed that the program had a positive effect on the physical fitness of the women, with significant improvements in heart rate, blood pressure, and body composition. The program was well-tolerated by the women, and they reported feeling more energetic and confident after the 12-week program.
