PM: Program Manager (Online) January February 2003 Issue , Coaching Roi: Delivering Strategic Value Employing Executive Coaching in Defense Acquisition Alphonzo Moseley, 2011-10-13 Alphonzo Moseley's Doctor of Strategic Leadership final project forms the basis for this relevant book Coaching ROI Delivering Strategic Value Employing Executive Coaching in Defense Acquisition. Clearly Moseley has done a very good job of providing a new addition to Defense acquisition studies. Moseley is an executive coach through the Cambridge Group Worldwide Boston MA. His research is one taken at Regent University for the purpose of enhancing leadership development among executive acquisition managers to provide a global learning environment to support a mission ready defense acquisition workforce that develops, delivers and sustains effective and affordable war fighting capabilities. The progress for Moseley and his colleagues as executive coaches at DAU is measured according to how well the defense acquisition workforce does its mission. Since the executive coaching initiative is the first of its kind at the university, a level 5 evaluation, the fifth level of evaluating coaching measured by a return on investment ROI, would provide a deeper understanding of the sources of business value and especially how coaching creates monetary value in Defense acquisition. The results indicated that the executive coaching program delivered strategic value represented by a conservative ROI of 1066 percent. Similarly, the coachees and their organizations experienced six business results: increased customer satisfaction, increased resources, increased work group productivity, reduced cycle time, increased organizational efficiency, and increased personal productivity. Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals, 1999

Critical Issues in Homeland Security James D. Ramsay, Linda Kiltz, 2014-01-07

An essential casebook that critically examines real life situations in homeland security including terrorism, emergency management and environmental security to better understand the theories and practices of the discipline

Net Loss Nathan Newman, 2010-11-01

Newman first tells the story of the US federal government's crucial role in the early development of the internet with the promotion of open computer standards and collaborative business practices that became the driving force of the Silicon Valley model. He then examines the complex dynamic of the process whereby regional economies have been changing as business alliances built around industries like the internet replace the broader public investments that fuelled regional growth in the past. A radical restructuring of once regionally confused industries like banking, electric utilities and telephone companies is under way with changes in federal regulation helping to undermine regional planning and the power of local community actors.

Strategy Making in a Crisis Michael Gibbert, 2010-01-01

Michael Gibbert presents a thoughtful theoretical framework allowing readers to critically think about imaginations related to strategy making. His research is based on a highly complex case and diversified context allowing us to understand the use of different theories in an integrated way. Gilbert Probst, World Economic Forum, Geneva, Switzerland. Putting imagination center stage in strategy making is a long overdue perspective one that can renew the field. Michael Gibbert makes an important contribution through this integrative framing Yves Doz INSEAD France If you can't imagine the future of your company how are you supposed to shape it This book helps appreciate and execute imaginative strategy making Martin Hoegl WHU Otto Beisheim Graduate School of Management Germany Which strategy making approach works best in a crisis In current literature the recommendations oscillate between prediction control and practice but this unique book focuses specifically on strategy making in a crisis In a crisis the business landscape is neither stable nor predictable resources are scarce rather than abundant customers disappear and shareholders revolt all of which can make prediction and control very difficult Drawing on evidence from philosophy and on a multi year case study of a major multinational Michael Gibbert points to three different kinds of imaginations and proposes a three step model for imaginative strategy making Introducing new topics on this subject Strategy Making in a Crisis will strongly appeal to top level managers including corporate development departments and business unit level strategy Postgraduate students will also receive ideas for their own theses not only from the content but also from the approach which is deductive and integrates management theories using social science literature and methodology

Big-Box Swindle Stacy Mitchell, 2007-10-01 A Book Sense Pick and Annual Highlight With a New Afterword In less than two decades large retail chains have become the most powerful corporations in America In this deft and revealing book Stacy Mitchell illustrates how mega retailers are fueling many of our most pressing problems from the shrinking middle class to rising pollution and diminished civic engagement and she shows how a growing number of communities and independent businesses are effectively fighting back Mitchell traces the dramatic growth of mega retailers from big boxes like Wal Mart Home Depot Costco and Staples to chains like Starbucks Olive Garden Blockbuster and Old Navy and the precipitous decline of independent businesses Drawing on examples from virtually every state in the country she unearths the extraordinary impact of these companies and the big box mentality on everything from soaring gasoline consumption to rising poverty rates failing family farms and declining voting levels Along the way Mitchell exposes the shocking role government policy has played in the expansion of mega retailers and builds a compelling case that communities composed of many small locally owned businesses are healthier and more prosperous than those dominated by a few large chains More than a critique Big Box Swindle provides an invigorating account of how some communities have successfully countered the spread of big boxes and rebuilt their local economies Since 2000 more than two hundred big box development projects have been halted by groups of ordinary citizens and scores of towns and cities have adopted laws that favor small scale local business development and limit the proliferation of chains From cutting edge land use policies to innovative cooperative small business initiatives Mitchell offers communities concrete strategies that can stave off mega retailers and create a more prosperous and sustainable future

Public Gardens and Livable Cities Donald A. Rakow, Meghan Z. Gough, Sharon A. Lee, 2020-11-15 Public Gardens and Livable Cities changes the paradigm for how we conceive of the role of urban public gardens Donald A Rakow Meghan Z Gough and Sharon A Lee advocate for public gardens as community outreach agents that can and should partner with local organizations to support positive local agendas Safe neighborhoods quality science education access to fresh and healthy foods substantial training opportunities and environmental health are the key initiative areas the authors explore as they highlight model successes and instructive failures that can guide future practices Public Gardens and Livable Cities uses a prescriptive approach to synthesize a range of public private and nonprofit initiatives from municipalities throughout the country In doing so the authors examine the initiatives from a practical perspective to identify how they were implemented their sustainability the obstacles they encountered the impact of the initiatives on their populations and how they dealt with the communities underlying social problems By emphasizing the knowledge and skills that public gardens can bring to partnerships seeking to improve the quality of life in cities this book offers a deeper understanding of the urban public garden as a key resource for sustainable community development
