“All-Electric” Narratives Rachele Dini,2021-10-07 Winner of the 2023 Emily Toth Award for Best Single Work in Women s Studies All Electric Narratives is the first in depth study of time saving electrical appliances in American literature It examines the literary depiction of refrigerators vacuum cleaners oven ranges washing machines dryers dishwashers toasters blenders standing and hand held mixers and microwave ovens between 1945 when the all electric home came to be associated with the nation s hard won victory and 2020 as contemporary writers consider the enduring material and spiritual effects of these objects in the 21st century The appropriation and subversion of the rhetoric of domestic electrification and time saving comprises a crucial but overlooked element in 20th century literary forms and genres including Beat literature Black American literature second wave feminist fiction science fiction and postmodernist fiction Through close readings of dozens of literary texts alongside print and television ads from this period Dini shows how U S writers have unearthed the paradoxes inherent to claims of appliances capacity to give back time to their user transport them into a technologically progressive future or return them to some pastoral past In so doing she reveals literary appliances role in raising questions about gender norms and sexuality racial exclusion and erasure class anxieties the ramifications of mechanization the perils and possibilities of conformity the limitations of patriotism and the inevitable fallacy of utopian thinking while both shaping and radically disrupting the literary forms in which they operated

Cow Talk Michelle K. Berry,2023-03-16 The image of western ranchers making a stand for their rights against developers the government illegal immigrants may be commonplace today but the political power of the cowboy was a long time in the making In a book steeped in the culture traditions and history of western range ranching Michelle K Berry takes readers into the Cold War world of cattle ranchers in the American West to show how that power with its implications for the lands and resources of the mountain states was built shaped and shored up between 1945 and 1965 After long days working the ranch battling human and nonhuman threats and wrestling with nature ranchers got down to business of another sort which Berry calls cow talk Discussing the best new machinery sharing stories of drought blizzards and bugs talking money and management and strategy these ranchers were building a community specific to their time place and work and creating a language that embodied their culture Cow Talk explores how this language and its iconography evolved and how it came to provide both a context and a vehicle for political power Using ranchers personal papers publications and cattle growers association records the book provides an inside view of how range cattle ranchers in Arizona New Mexico Colorado Wyoming and Montana created a culture and a shared identity that would frame and inform their relationship with their environment and with society at large in an increasingly challenging modernizing world A multifaceted analysis of postwar ranch life labor and culture this innovative work offers unprecedented insight into the cohesive political and cultural power of western ranchers in our day

Suburbanizing the Masses Colin Divall, Winstan Bond, 2017-09-29 This title was first published in 2003 Suburbanizing the Masses examines how collective forms of transport have contributed to the spatial and social evolution of towns and cities in various countries since the mid nineteenth century Divided into two sections the volume develops first the classic tradition on transport and the city public transport s impact on urban development The contextualisation of transport is one important factor in the historical debates surrounding urban development As well as analysing the discourse employed by urban political and business elites in favour of public transport these contributions show the degree to which practice often fell short of ideals The second section tackles the professional paradigms of urban transport the circulation of traffic in cities and the technological modes appropriate to its realization In particular these contributions explore the paradigms held by professional planners and managers and the political classes associated with them From a variety of perspectives Suburbanizing the Masses demonstrates the continuing relevance of socio historical inquiry on the relationship between public transport and urban development By differentiating between the many roles of urban transport in the nineteenth century it confirms that public transport was not directly linked to urban growth and instead often had only a limited effect on the wider urban structure Suburbanizing the Masses forces a reassessment of the received historiography that maintains cheap public transport was essential to the spectacular growth of cities in the nineteenth century

Electric Sounds Steve J. Wurtzler, 2007 The 1920s and 1930s marked some of the most important developments in the history of the American mass media the film industry s conversion to synchronous sound the rise of radio networks and advertising supported broadcasting the establishment of a federal regulatory framework and the birth of a new acoustic commodity in which consumers accessed stories songs and other products through multiple media formats The innovations of this period not only restructured and consolidated corporate mass media interests while shifting the conventions of media consumption They renegotiated the social functions assigned to mass media forms In this impeccably researched history Steve J Wurtzler grasps the full story of sounds media proving that the ultimate form technology takes is never predetermined but shaped by conflicting visions of technological possibility in economic cultural and political realms

Household Horror Marc Olivier,2020-02-11 A scholar examines 14 everyday objects featured in horror films and how they manifest their power and speak to society's fears Take a tour of the house where a microwave killed a gremlin a typewriter made Jack a dull boy a sewing machine fashioned Carrie's prom dress and houseplants might kill you while you sleep In Household Horror Marc Olivier highlights the wonder fear and terrifying dimension of objects in horror cinema Inspired by object oriented ontology and the nonhuman turn in philosophy Olivier places objects in film on par with humans arguing for example that a sleeper sofa is as much the star of Sisters as Margot Kidder that The Exorcist is about a possessed bed and that Rosemary's Baby is a conflict between herbal shakes and prenatal vitamins Household Horror reinvigorates horror film criticism by investigating the unfathomable being of objects as seemingly benign as remotes radiators refrigerators and dining tables Olivier questions what Hitchcock's Psycho tells us about shower curtains What can we learn from Freddie Krueger's greatest accomplice the mattress Room by room Olivier considers the dark side of fourteen household objects to demonstrate how the objects in these films manifest their own power and connect with specific cultural fears and concerns Provides a lively and highly original contribution to horror studies As a work on cinema it introduces the reader to films that may be less well known to casual fans and scholars more conspicuously it returns to horror staples gleefully reanimating works that one might otherwise assume had been critically done to death Psycho The Exorcist The Shining Allan Cameron University of Auckland

Politics of the Pantry Emily E. LB. Twarog,2017-09-15 Politics of the Pantry is a study of how American housewives used their identity to protest the high cost of food It argues that women's involvement in labor politics needs to be seen not just in industry but also as consumer protest

Manhood Factories Paula Lupkin,2010 Between the Civil War and the Great Depression the Young Men's Christian Association built more than a thousand community centers across the United States and in major cities around the world Dubbed manhood factories by Teddy Roosevelt these iconic buildings served as athletic centers and residential facilities for a rapidly growing urban male population In Manhood Factories Paula Lupkin goes behind the reserved Beaux Arts facades of typical YMCA buildings constructed in this period to understand the urban anxieties moral agendas and conceptions of masculinity that guided their design construction and use She shows that YMCA patrons like J P Morgan Cyrus McCormick Jr and John Wanamaker hoped to create Christian clubhouses that would counteract the corrupting influences of the city At first designed by leading American architects including James Renwick Jr and William Le Baron Jenney and then standardized by the YMCA's own building bureau YMCAs combined elements of men's clubs department stores hotels and Sunday schools Every aspect of the building process was informed by this mission Lupkin argues from raising funds selecting the site and the architect determining the exterior style arranging and furnishing interior spaces and representing the buildings in postcards and other printed materials Beginning with the early history of the YMCA and the construction of New York City's landmark Twenty third Street YMCA of 1869 Lupkin follows the efforts of YMCA leaders to shape a modern yet moral public culture and even define class race ethnicity and gender through its buildings Illustrated with many rarely seen photographs maps and drawings Manhood Factories offers a fascinating new perspective on a venerable institution and its place in America's cultural and architectural history

Shopping All the Way to the Woods Rachel S. Gross, 2024-03-26 A fascinating history of the profitable paradox of the American outdoor experience visiting nature first requires shopping No escape to nature is complete without a trip to an outdoor recreational store or a browse through online offerings This is the irony of the American outdoor experience visiting wild spaces supposedly untouched by capitalism first requires shopping With consumers spending billions of dollars on clothing and equipment each year as they seek out nature the American outdoor sector grew over the past 150 years from a small collection of outfitters to an industry contributing more than 2 percent of the nation's economic output Rachel S. Gross argues that this success was predicated not just on creating functional equipment but also on selling an authentic anticommercial outdoor identity In other words shopping for the woods was also about being or becoming the right kind of person Demonstrating that outdoor culture is commercial culture Gross examines Americans journey toward outdoor expertise by tracing the development of the nascent outdoor goods industry the influence of World War II on its growth and the boom years of outdoor businesses

Refined Tastes Wendy A. Woloson, 2003-04-30 A look at sugar in 19th century American culture and how it rose in popularity to gain its place in the nation's diet today American consumers today regard sugar as a mundane and sometimes even troublesome substance linked to hyperactivity in children and other health concerns Yet two hundred years ago American consumers treasured sugar as a rare commodity and consumed it only in small amounts In Refined Tastes Sugar Confectionery and Consumers in Nineteenth Century America Wendy A. Woloson demonstrates how the cultural role of sugar changed from being a precious luxury good to a ubiquitous necessity Sugar became a social marker that established and reinforced class and gender differences During the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Woloson explains the social elite saw expensive sugar and sweet confections as symbols of their wealth As refined sugar became more affordable and accessible new confections children's candy ice cream and wedding cakes made their way into American culture acquiring a broad array of social meanings Originally signifying male economic prowess sugar eventually became associated with femininity and women's consumerism Woloson's work offers a vivid account of this social transformation along with the emergence of consumer culture in America Elegantly structured and beautifully written As simply an explanation of how Americans became such avid consumers of sugar this book is superb and can be recommended highly Ken Albala Winterthur Portfolio An enlightening tale about the social identity of sweets how they contain not just chewy centers but rich meanings about gender about the natural world and about consumerism Cindy Ott Enterprise and Society

A People's History of Computing in the United States Joy Lisi Rankin, 2018-10-08 Does Silicon Valley deserve all the credit for digital creativity and social media Joy Rankin questions this triumphalism by revisiting a pre PC time when schools were not the last stop for mature consumer technologies but flourishing sites of innovative collaboration when users taught computers and visionaries dreamed of networked access for all

The Child in American Evangelicalism and the Problem of Affluence David A. Sims, 2009-06-01 This work presents an evangelical theology of the child nurtured in the context of American evangelicalism and affluence It employs an eclectic theological critical method to produce a theological anthropology of the affluent American evangelical child AAEC through interdisciplinary evangelical engagement of American history sociology and economics Sims articulates how affluence constitutes a significant impediment to evangelical nurture of the AAEC in the discipline and instruction of the Lord Thus the problem he addresses is nurture in evangelical affluence conceived as a theological anthropological problem Nurture in the cultural matrices of the evangelical affluence generated by technological consumer capitalism in the U S impedes spiritual and moral formation of the AAEC for discipleship in the way of the cross This impediment risks disciplinary formation of the AAEC for capitalist culture cultivates delusional belief that life consists in an abundance of possessions and hinders the practice of evangelical liberation of the poor on humanity's underside The result is the AAEC's spiritual moral lack in late modernity Chapter 1 introduces the problem of the AAEC Chapters 2 and 3 provide a diachronic lens for the theological anthropology of the AAEC through critical assessment of the theological anthropologies of the child in Jonathan Edwards Horace Bushnell and Lawrence Richards Chapters 4 and 5 constitute the synchronic perspective of the AAEC Chapter 4 presents an evangelical sociology of the AAEC drawing upon William Corsaro's theory of interpretive reproductions and chapter 5 constructs an evangelical theology of the AAEC through critical interaction with John Schneider's moral theology of affluence Chapter 6 Whither the AAEC concludes with a recapitulation of the work and a forecast of possible futures for the AAEC in the twenty first century

Cutting Along the Color Line Quincy T. Mills, 2013-10-09 Today black owned barber shops play a central role in African American public life The intimacy of commercial grooming encourages both confidentiality and camaraderie which make the barber shop an important gathering place for African American men to talk freely But for many years preceding and even after the Civil War black barbers endured a measure of social stigma for perpetuating inequality though the profession offered economic mobility to black entrepreneurs black barbers were obliged by custom to serve an exclusively white clientele Quincy T Mills traces the lineage from these nineteenth century barbers to the bustling enterprises of today demonstrating that the livelihood offered by the service economy was crucial to the development of a black commercial sphere and the barber shop as a democratic social space Cutting Along the Color Line chronicles the cultural history of black barber shops as businesses and civic institutions Through several generations of barbers Mills examines the transition from slavery to freedom in the nineteenth century the early twentieth century expansion of black consumerism and the challenges of professionalization licensing laws and competition from white barbers He finds that the profession played a significant though complicated role in twentieth century racial politics while the services of shaving and grooming were instrumental in the creation of socially acceptable black masculinity barbering permitted the financial independence to maintain public spaces that fostered civil rights politics This sweeping engaging history of an iconic cultural establishment shows that black entrepreneurship was intimately linked to the struggle for equality
