and to agenda setting by private commercial interests Third the learner is increasingly conceptualised as a consumer and education a consumer good The case studies therefore enable us to see more clearly how different forms of the private in education alter what is at stake for whom and with what outcomes and the consequences for individuals and societies In turn these raise the very important question about what they mean for our conceptualisations of education learning and teaching on the one hand and for education as a site and means for emancipation on the other These are profound social justice concerns and ones that make this volume distinctive This book sets out to address these hard but urgent questions and will be of interest to academics and students of education education researchers government personnel and policymakers
