just genuinely wanted to solo and sound good without having to learn theory in order to do it Admittedly I was discouraged at first but I put myself in their shoes and came up with this method to get to the good stuff faster and sound good I won't deal with pentatonic scales here as you're probably already well versed in those and are looking to be able to solo over simple and common chord progressions or add more variety to your improvisations If you're looking for a system to learn pentatonic scales and modes which is also theory lite check out another of my books Beyond Pentatonics All the music theory terms you'll find in this book are for labeling purposes only and will help you recognize these concepts in songs or pieces you already know they'll also help you find the information on the fretboard when you need it instead of fumbling around What's more due to the simplicity of this approach you'll be able to reduce your thinking to a minimum and concentrate on making a musical contribution to whatever situation you find yourself in and making jamming playing out a far more enjoyable experience I love this approach and often teach it to people who don't want to practice 10 hours a day are not interested in theory or knowing the whys and wherefores of everything They just want a straightforward if you learn this and play it here it'll sound good method so that they can express themselves in a jam session solo with more than just a pentatonic scale or play out on the weekends If you have even half an hour a day to play practice guitar you can make a world of progress with your soloing by using this method
