Evangelicals and the Arts in Fiction John Weaver, 2013-04-06 This book is an exploration of how the relationship of evangelicals to the arts has been portrayed in fiction for the last century The author argues that evangelicals are consistently seen as enemies of the arts by non evangelical writers The artist typically represented by a literal artist occasionally by a scientist or reluctant messiah typically has to fight for liberation from such cliched character types as the failed evangelical artist the rube or the hypocritical pastor Rather than resist the cliché of anti art evangelicalism the book contends that evangelicals should embrace it this stereotype is only hurtful so long as one assumes that the arts represent a positive force in human society This work built off the scholarship of John Carey does not make that assumption Surveying the current pro artistic views of most evangelicals the author advances the argument that evangelicals need to return to their anti art roots By doing so they would align themselves with the most radical artistic elements of modernism rather than with the classicists that the movement currently seems to prefer and provide space for themselves to critique how secular artistic stereotypes of evangelicals have economically and artistically marginalized the evangelicals community Raising Cain Wayne Harvey, 2013 Old as the hills see eye to eye raising Cain this collection of insights and anecdotes about how ancient scripture still shapes the things we say today is a great conversation piece and a fun testament to the Bible's lasting influence

The Role of the Literary Canon in the Teaching of Literature Robert Aston,2020-05-12 This book investigates the role of the idea of the literary canon in the teaching of literature especially in colleges and secondary schools in the United States Before the term canon was widely used in literary studies which occurred in the second half of 20th century when the canon was first seriously viewed as politically and culturally problematic the idea that some literary texts were more worthy of being studied than others existed since the beginning of the discipline of the teaching of literature in the 1800s The concept of the canon however extends as far back as to Ancient Greece and its meaning has evolved over time Thus this book charts the changing meaning of the idea of the literary canon examining its influence specifically in the teaching of literature from the beginning of the field to the 21st century To explain how the literary canon and the teaching of literature have changed over time and continue to change this book constructs a theory of canon formation based on the ideas of Michel Foucault and the assemblage theory of Manuel DeLanda illustrating that the literary canon while frequently contested is integral to the teaching of literature yet changes as the teaching of literature changes

Metamorphosis David Gallagher,2009-01-01 The origins of selected instances of metamorphosis in Germanic literature are traced from their roots in Ovid's Metamorphoses grouped roughly on an ascending evolutionary scale invertebrates, birds, animals, and mermaids. Whilst a broad range of mythological, legendary, fairytale, and folktale traditions have played an appreciable part, Ovid's Metamorphoses is still an important comparative analysis and reference point for nineteenth and twentieth century German language narratives of transformations. Metamorphosis is most often used as an index of crisis, an existential crisis of the subject or a crisis in a society's moral, social, or cultural values. Specifically selected texts for analysis include Jeremias Gotthelf's Die schwarze Spinne 1842 with the terrifying metamorphoses of Christine into a black spider, the metamorphosis of Gregor Samsa in Kafka's Die Verwandlung 1915, ambiguous metamorphoses in E. T. A. Hoffmann's Der goldne Topf 1814, Hermann Hesse's Piktors Verwandlungen 1925, Der Steppenwolf 1927, and Christoph Ransmayr's Die letzte Welt 1988. Other mythical metamorphoses are examined in texts by Bachmann, Fouqué, Fontane, Goethe, Nietzsche, Nelly Sachs, Thomas Mann, and Wagner, and these and many others confirm that metamorphosis is used historically, scientifically, for religious purposes, to highlight identity, sexuality, a dream state, or for metaphoric, metonymic, or allegorical reasons. Proverbs William John Deane, 1891. New Poetics of Chekhov's Major Plays Harai Golomb, 2014-01-01. This text attempts to map the unique structure and meaning that comprise Chekhov's immensely rich artistic universe. The prime components of his theatrical technique and fictional world are explored to uncover the basic principles governing the Chekhov's universe.

Publications of the Arkansas Philological Association Arkansas Philological Association, 1982. Indian Cinema and Human Rights: An Intersectional Tale Adam Dubin, Ruchira Goswami, Ishita Sharma, 2024-11-26. This book examines the intersection between Indian cinema across geographic regions, languages, and formats, and human rights. It analyzes Indian cinema from multiple human rights perspectives, such as freedom of expression and censorship, socio-economic rights, caste rights, women's and children's rights, and LGBTQIA equality. The book bridges human rights law and cinema studies and opens up new research areas within sociocultural and socio-legal academic contexts. It also contributes to academic disciplines beyond Law and Cinema, including Media, Cultural, Gender, Socio-economic, and Sociology studies, and is relevant for Liberal Arts curricula, Law Schools, and as a reference book in university libraries in India and internationally, especially in film institutes. Finally, the book offers practical implications for human rights activists and policymakers by exploring how rights can be advanced through cinema and pop culture.
