Cuba (Winner of the Pulitzer Prize) Ada Ferrer, 2021-09-07 WINNER OF THE PULITZER PRIZE IN HISTORY WINNER OF THE LOS ANGELES TIMES BOOK PRIZE IN HISTORY Full of lively insights and lucid prose The Wall Street Journal an epic sweeping history of Cuba and its complex ties to the United States from before the arrival of Columbus to the present day written by one of the world's leading historians of Cuba In 1961 at the height of the Cold War the United States severed diplomatic relations with Cuba where a momentous revolution had taken power three years earlier For more than half a century the stand off continued through the tenure of ten American presidents and the fifty year rule of Fidel Castro His death in 2016 and the retirement of his brother and successor Raul Castro in 2021 have spurred questions about the country's future Meanwhile politics in Washington Barack Obama's opening to the island Donald Trump's reversal of that policy and the election of Joe Biden have made the relationship between the two nations a subject of debate once more Now award winning historian Ada Ferrer delivers an important The Guardian and moving chronicle that demands a new reckoning with both the island's past and its relationship with the United States Spanning more than five centuries Cuba An American History provides us with a front row seat as we witness the evolution of the modern nation with its dramatic record of conquest and colonization of slavery and freedom of independence and revolutions made and unmade Along the way Ferrer explores the sometimes surprising often troubled intimacy between the two countries documenting not only the influence of the United States on Cuba but also the many ways the island has been a recurring presence in US affairs This is a story that will give Americans unexpected insights into the history of their own nation and in so doing help them imagine a new relationship with Cuba readers will close this fascinating book with a sense of hope The Economist Filled with rousing stories and characters and drawing on more than thirty years of research in Cuba Spain and the United States as well as the author's own extensive travel to the island over the same period this is a stunning and monumental account like no other

Ybor City Sarah McNamara, 2023-02-16 Decades before Miami became Havana USA a wave of leftist radical working class women and men from prerevolutionary Cuba crossed the Florida Straits made Ybor City the global capital of the Cuban cigar industry and established the foundation of latinidad in the Sunshine State Located on the eastern edge of Tampa Ybor City was a neighborhood of cigar workers and Caribbean revolutionaries who sought refuge against the shifting tides of international political turmoil during the early half of the twentieth century Historian Sarah McNamara tells the story of immigrant and U S born Latinas/os who organized strikes marched against fascism and criticized U S foreign policy While many members of the immigrant generation maintained their dedication to progressive ideals for years to come those who came of age in the wake of World War II distanced themselves from leftist politics amidst the Red Scare and the wrecking ball of urban renewal This portrait of the political shifts that defined Ybor City highlights the underexplored role of women's leadership within movements for social and economic justice as it illustrates how people places and politics become who and what they are

Time's Language Margaret Randall, 2018-09-01 Time's Language contains powerful poems of witness as well as personal poems and autobiographical prose pieces that read like prose poems recounting a life of resistance the life of a life long literary and political revolutionary As US Poet Laureate Juan Felipe Herrera writes Here are Margaret Randall's decades of love ink tears contestation and light let us bow in gratitude for this truth telling daring border breaking pioneering long time volume of soul fire

Against Atrocity Margaret Randall, 2019-09-01 Against Atrocity is Margaret Randall's first large book of poems since Time's Language Selected Poems 1959 2018 a major collection covering work from 30 of her books over a period of 60 years This new book shows that this poet continues to be a relevant and inspiring voice in American letters It is also a stellar example of contemporary intelligent protest poetry by a significant writer Long known and honored for her work throughout the Americas she is also long admired in the LGBTQ community Among numerous awards Randall was awarded the Lillian Hellman and Dashiell Hammett grant for writers victimized by political repression In 2004 she was the first recipient of PEN New Mexico's Dorothy Doyle Lifetime Achievement Award for Writing and Human Rights Activism In 2017 she was only the second American to be awarded the prestigious Medal of Literary Merit by Literatura en el Bravo Chihuahua Mexico Nicaraguan poet Daisy Zamora writes These poems restore language to its authentic meaning remind us of the power of words when expressing the truth and the redeeming potential of poetry in these terrible times These are indeed terrible times ones in which we increasingly find ourselves looking to art and creativity to lift us from the unchecked violence everyday frustration of deaf governance and an out of control profit motive that too often seems to bury us in a dangerous sense of futility Randall writes as insightfully about the plight of a single woman or child as she does about global warming or the mysteries of aging In these poems we find more questions than answers but they are the questions we must continue to ask ourselves in order for our humanity to survive Against Atrocity will also see publication this year in completely bilingual format by Aguacero in Buenos Aires Argentina And some of the poems are included in El lenguaje del tiempo a book length sampling of the poet's work coming out from El Angel Editor in Quito Ecuador to coincide with that country's Poesía en paralelo cero Poetry on the Equator an important Latin American poetry festival Randall's work is being published in Cuba throughout South America in Europe and Asia She is someone who combines the intimate with the international our small stories with the larger one that shapes us all Here are poems that pierce complacency's thick skin and provide a road map to agency and hope Celia Sánchez Manduley Tiffany A. Sippial, 2019-10-29 Celia Sánchez Manduley 1920-1980 is famous for her role in the Cuban revolution Clad in her military fatigues this first female guerrilla of the Sierra Maestra is seen in many photographs alongside Fidel Castro Sánchez joined the movement in her early thirties initially as an arms runner and later as a combatant She was one of Castro's closest confidants perhaps lover and went on to serve as a high ranking government official and international ambassador Since her death Sánchez has been revered as a national icon cultivated and guarded by the Cuban government With almost unprecedented access to Sánchez's papers including a personal diary and firsthand interviews with family members Tiffany A Sippial presents the first critical study of a notoriously private and self-abnegating woman who yet exists as an enduring symbol of revolutionary ideals Sippial reveals the scope and depth of Sánchez's power and influence within the Cuban revolution as well as her struggles with violence her political development and the sacrifices required by her status as a leader and New Woman Using the tools of feminist biography cultural history and the politics of memory Sippial reveals how Sánchez strategically crafted her own legacy within a history still dominated by bearded men in fatigues She Becomes Time Margaret Randall, 2016-05-01 Margaret Randall's new collection She Becomes Time continues her legacy of poetry that combines the intimate with the global history with feeling memory with the world we touch and see showing always in surprising ways how these impact and intersect each other The book begins with a group of poems about her childhood in which the poet reveals secrets and asks unexpected questions It ends with a breathtaking series about Mexico and Cuba countries the poet knows well and which she takes on without any idealization Morning After Margaret Randall, 2017-09-01 The Morning After is Margaret Randall's 30th poetry collection and eleventh with Wings Press The title poem was written as so many in this country were the morning after the November 8 2016 presidential election I wish there was a pill for that is one of its lines But Randall doesn't stay with anger irony or a pamphleteering voice Her work goes much deeper grappling with ageless concerns and unexpected details Throughout this volume there is a concern with time place and memory intimate landscape mature love the current threat to the richness of language global consciousness a mapping of human questioning and exploration of identity The National Economy / Economía Nacional Gaudencio Rodríguez-Santana, 2019-02-01 For nearly three centuries Cuba's economy was based on a single crop sugar cane After Fidel Castro's 1959 Revolution of 1959 despite serious attempts at diversification the country continued to depend on the monocrop Men and women cut cane by hand City people who had never swung a machete spent long volunteer hours aiding the national effort But the US embargo and diminishing international markets destroyed Cuba's economy Gaudencio Rodríguez Santana's NATIONAL ECONOMY ECONOMIA NACIONAL explores that collapse and its physical emotional and psychic consequences It is a powerful insightful collection of eye witness poems by one of Cuba's most celebrated contemporary poets As translator and editor Margaret Randall writes in her introduction Rodríguez Santana uses the failure of sugar as a metaphor for the many revolutionary hopes that have been lost He evokes landscapes tastes smells a cartography that no longer exists In these poems metaphor moves beyond itself as it hits the reader with a profound and complex truth This book is raw and painful It contains a rare imagery in the voice of a poet who combines an intimate knowledge of what he writes about with a unique poetic voice and exquisite perfection of his craft Starfish on a Beach Margaret Randall, 2020-10-01 Starfish on a Beach The Pandemic Poems grew out of the first months of the 2020 COVID 19 pandemic Randall began writing these poems out of and about the phenomenon one or three and day When some were posted on Facebook readers responded immediately to identify with her take on what we were all experiencing These poems reflect the fear isolation and horror we felt as society as we watched public life close down people were urged to stay distant from one another wear face masks and wash our hands frequently Many of us lost jobs some of us lost businesses We saw beloved family members and friends sicken and some of them die We watched helplessly as sources of income disappeared and the future seemed uncertain But I also began thinking about other aspects of life through the lens of this situation Have we brought this plague upon ourselves by our carelessness and lack of accountability to global warming Does our social organization really meet our needs Do we have the healthcare we need and deserve Why are some communities suffering so much more than others How might we think about changing what doesn't work These poems reflect all this and more They are offered in concern anger and also hope for a different future These poems predate the killing of George Floyd so the focus remains on health and isolation This Honest Land Margaret Randall, 2024-05-01 Well into her ninth decade legendary human rights activist poet historian translator and editor Margaret Randall keeps right on producing important and impressive books so many that even Randall lost count around 200 In her latest poetry collection This Honest Land she revisits many of her familiar themes memory place and displacement climate change fear love and the desert landscape of her New Mexican home These poems are alive and vivid almost youthfully intense yet simultaneously wise and insightful with the authority of the poet's mature voice More Letters from the Edge Margaret Randall, 2025-09-09 A collection of letters exchanged between the author and four outriders artists writers and activists who risk everything to confront censorship injustice and the constraints of convention In More Letters from the Edge Margaret Randall continues her exploration of the power of correspondence revealing the intimate and unguarded exchanges that define lives lived at the margins of convention Through letters interviews and fragments of memory she invites us into conversations with four fearlessly radical writers artists and activists Arturo Arango Kathy Boudin Jane Norling and Robert Schweitzer Their voices translated remembered and preserved offer urgent reflections on risk resistance and the act of making meaning in a world that now more than ever seeks to silence dissent More than historical artifacts these conversations bridge past and present proving that the fight for creative and political integrity is never confined to a single era More Letters from the Edge is a testament to those who push against the edges opening doors for all who follow
