The Fallacies of Cold War Deterrence and a New Direction Keith B. Payne,2014-07-11 In 1938 Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain hoped that a policy of appeasement would satisfy Adolf Hitler s territorial appetite and structured British policy accordingly This plan was a failure chiefly because Hitler was not a statesman who would ultimately conform to familiar norms Chamberlain s policy was doomed because he had greatly misjudged Hitler's basic beliefs and thus his behavior. U.S. Cold War nuclear deterrence policy was similarly based on the confident but questionable assumption that Soviet leaders would be rational by Washington's standards; they would behave reasonably when presented with nuclear threats. The United States assumed that any sane challenger would be deterred from severe provocations because not to do so would be foolish. Keith B. Payne addresses the question of whether this line of reasoning is adequate for the post-Cold War period. By analyzing past situations and a plausible future scenario, a U.S.-Chinese crisis over Taiwan, he proposes that American policymakers move away from the assumption that all our opponents are comfortably predictable by the standards of our own culture. In order to avoid unexpected and possibly disastrous failures of deterrence, he argues we should closely examine particular opponents' culture and beliefs in order to better anticipate their likely responses to U.S. deterrence threats.

American Arabists in the Cold War Middle East, 1946-75 Teresa Fava Thomas, 2016-07-06 This book examines the careers of 53 area experts in the US State Department's Middle East bureau during the Cold War. Known as Arabists or Middle East hands, they were very different in background, education, and policy outlook from their predecessors, the Orientalists. A highly competitive selection process and rigorous training shaped them into a small corps of diplomatic professionals with top-notch linguistic and political reporting skills. Case studies shed light on Washington's perceptions of Israel and the Arab world as well as how American leaders came to regard and often disregard the advice of their own expert advisors. This study focuses on their transformative role in Middle East diplomacy from the Eisenhower through the Ford administrations.

Cold War Genres Gregory Goulding, 2024-10-01 Cold War Genres explores post-independence Hindi literature, framing it within the sociopolitical backdrop of Nehruvian India during the early Cold War. The book underscores the pivotal role of Hindi's claims to be a national language following independence, which fostered a unique moment of literary innovation. Central to its narrative is the work of Gajanan Madhav Muktibodh, a pivotal figure in modern South Asian literature. Using Muktibodh's poetry, criticism, and fiction as a primary example, the book shows how literary form shapes a response to the internal contradictions of 1950s India, one that must be read in light of both the antinomies of Hindi literature and North India as well as the aesthetic debates and emerging ideas of global space during this time. Cold War Genres therefore functions as a lens to evaluate questions of genre and form shared by a range of literary cultures in the mid-twentieth-century decolonizing world. This book features extensive translations from Muktibodh's poetry and prose, including full translations of two poems: Brahmar k as The Brahman Demon and A dhere me In the Dark.

A Military History of the Cold War, 1962-1991 Jonathan M. House, 2020-09-24 Study of the Cold War all too often shows us the war that wasn't fought The reality of course is that many hot conflicts did occur some with the great powers weapons and approval others without It is this reality and this period of quasi war and semiconflict that Jonathan M House plumbs in A Military History of the Cold War 1962 1991 a complex case study in the Clausewitzian relationship between policy and military force during a time of global upheaval and political realignment This volume opens a new perspective on three fraught decades of Cold War history revealing how the realities of time distance resources and military culture often constrained and diverted the inclinations or policies of world leaders In addition to the Vietnam War and nuclear confrontations between the USSR and the United States this period saw dozens of regional wars and insurgencies fought throughout Asia Africa and Latin America Cuba Pakistan Indonesia Israel Egypt and South Africa pursued their own goals in ways that drew the superpowers into regional disputes Even clashes ostensibly unrelated to the politics of East West confrontation such as the Nigerian Biafran conflict the Falklands Malvinas War and the Indonesian occupation of East Timor involved armed forces weapons and tactics developed for the larger conflict and thus come under House's scrutiny His study also takes up nontraditional or specialized aspects of the period including weapons of mass destruction civil military relations civil defense and control of domestic disorders The result is a single integrated survey and analysis of a complex period in geopolitical history which fills a significant gap in our knowledge of the organization logistics operations and tactics involved in conflict throughout the Cold War

US Military Innovation since the Cold War Harvey Sapolsky, Benjamin Friedman, Brendan Green, 2009-04-28 This book explains how the US military reacted to the Revolution in Military Affairs RMA and failed to innovate its organization or doctrine to match the technological breakthroughs it brought about Many called for the transformation of the US military in the years after the end of the Cold War seeking the changes in organization and doctrine that would complete the RMA innovation and a commitment to counter insurgency peace keeping and nation building missions This volume describes the origins uses and limits of the RMA technologies examines how each of the five US armed services categorising the Special Operations as a separate service made their adjustments both to the technologies and the use of force and how the role of the civilian officials and the defense industry altered in this process of change and avoidance of change The book examines the internal politics of the services as well as civil military relations to identify the external pressures on the services for significant change in their doctrine and weapons. Many have noted the failure of the services to innovate in what can be called the Second Inter war Period, the years after the Cold War. This book offers explanations for this failure and arguments about the possible range and desirability of military innovation in the post Cold war era. This book will be of great interest to students of strategic studies, US defence politics, military studies and US politics.

Harvey M. Sapolsky is Professor of Public Policy and Organization in the Department of Political Science at MIT and former Director of the Security Studies Program. Benjamin H. Friedman is a Research Fellow in Defense and Homeland Security Studies at the Cato Institute and a Ph.D. Candidate in Political Science at MIT. Deconstructing and Reconstructing the Cold War Shahin P. Malik, 2018-12-17. Published in 1999, these essays are not deconstructive in the postmodern sense. None of the authors have that depth of scepticism about knowledge claims but they are all concerned that the terms of reference of Cold War enquiry have been inappropriately bounded. The chapters by Murray and Reynolds specifically address the broad theoretical issues involved with paradigms and explanation. The chapters by Dobson, Marsh, Malik, Evans and Dix stretch out Cold War paradigms with successive case studies of Anglo American relations: the USA, Britain, Iran and the oil majors, the Gulf States and the Cold War, South Africa and the Cold War and Indian neutralism. All five authors challenge the efficacy of neo realist analysis and explanation and critique the way that assumptions derived from that position have been used in historical explanation. The chapters by Ryall, Rogers and Bideleux deal with Roman Catholicism in East Central Europe with nuclear matters and with the Soviet perspective. Each work goes beyond the limits of Cold War paradigms. Finally, Ponting places the Cold War in the broad context of world history. These essays provide thought provoking scholarship which helps us both to nuance our understanding of the Cold War and to realise that it should not be taken as an all embracing paradigm for the explanation of postwar international relations

Soviet Cold War Attack Submarines Edward Hampshire, 2020-09-17 In this highly detailed book naval historian Edward Hampshire reveals the fascinating history of the nuclear powered attack submarines built and operated by the Soviet Union in the Cold War including each class of these formidable craft as they developed throughout the Cold War period The November class which were the Soviet Union's first nuclear submarines had originally been designed to fire a single enormous nuclear tipped torpedo but were eventually completed as boats firing standard torpedoes The Alfa class were perhaps the most remarkable submarines of the Cold War titanium hulled which was light and strong but extremely expensive and difficult to weld successfully crewed with only thirty men due to considerable automation and 30% faster than any US submarines they used a radical liquid lead bismuth alloy in the reactor plant The Victor class formed the backbone of the Soviet nuclear submarine fleet in the 1970s and 1980s as hunter killer submarines began to focus on tracking and potentially destroying NATO ballistic missile submarines The Sierra classes were further titanium hulled submarines and the single Mike class submarine was an experimental type containing a number of innovations Finally the Akula class were being constructed as the Cold War ended and these boats form the mainstay of the Russian nuclear attack submarine fleet today This book explores the design development and deployment of each of these classes in detail offering an unparalleled insight into the submarines which served the Soviet Union throughout the Cold War period The text is supported by stunning illustrations photographs and diagrams of the submarines Conflict
