Measures of Common Good Darren Ferry, 2008 In a compelling and comprehensive treatment of the nineteenth century voluntary association movement Darren Ferry situates these organizations within the much larger framework of the construction of collective liberal identities He shows that by attempting to transcend the political religious class and ethnic divisions of their constituencies voluntary societies acted as cultural mediators in the reproduction transmission and contestation of liberal values throughout central Canadian society Ferry examines a wide selection of voluntary societies mechanics institutes mutual benefit organizations agricultural associations temperance societies and literary and scientific associations He reinterprets the history of these organizations in terms of their own internal tensions over liberal doctrines and the effect of social cultural and economic change and compares the effects of liberalism on rural and urban associations and on societies in both English and French Canada Anchored with an array of archival documentation minute books lectures associational periodicals personal papers pamphlets and tracts Uniting in Measures of Common Good illuminates the experience of ordinary Canadians with the voluntary association movement and as well as the relations of the movement with the larger liberal society      Marketing and the Common Good Patrick E.
