Divided into eight parts, chapters cover issues associated with measurement such as validity and reliability as well as practical concerns around the development of appropriate selection procedures and implementation of selection programs. Several chapters discuss the measurement of various constructs commonly used as predictors and other chapters confront criterion measures that are used in test validation. Additional sections include chapters that focus on ethical and legal concerns and testing for certain types of jobs e.g. blue collar jobs. Part A establishes the fundamentals including the historical development of the law of work, why it is needed, the conceptual building blocks and the unsettled boundaries. Part B considers the core concerns of the law of work including the contract of employment, doctrines, main protections in employment legislation, the regulation of collective relations, discrimination and human rights.
