Aging and Neuropsychological Assessment Asenath LaRue, 2013-06-29 It is a privilege to be asked to write the foreword for so excellent a book so timely and so much needed by the field. Not only is it most unusual these days to have a single authored volume on so broad a topic, but Dr. LaRue has done a superb job of providing both a scholarly treatise and a practical handbook. With a burgeoning elderly population and the corresponding increase in geriatric psychopathology the needs of mental health services are exceeding by far the supply of appropriate providers In an effort to meet this need psychiatry medicine neurology pharmacology psychology nursing and social work have all made the provision of training in geriatrics and gerontology a high priority but I fear we are losing the race For example multidisciplinary teams that assess diagnose and treat mental health disorders in elderly patients are incomplete without clinical psychologists and neuropsychologists and yet there is barely a handful of clinical psychologists trained in dealing with geriatric patients We can count on our fingers the additional ones graduated each year In hospitals clinics and private practices across the country otherwise skilled psychologists are unprepared to respond to the special mental health needs of the elderly A few CME programs are helping to address this need but they are clearly not enough Motor Learning and Development Pamela S. Haibach-Beach, Melanie Perreault, Ali Brian, Douglas Holden Collier, 2024 Motor Learning and Development Third Edition With HKPropel Access unites two subdisciplines of motor behavior to provide an understanding of how humans acquire and develop movement skills throughout the life span It prepares students to create apply and evaluate motor skill programs

Nutrition, Aging, and the Elderly D.E. Danford, H.N. Munro, 2013-11-11 The proportion of the population over 65 years of age is increasing steadily in most industrialized countries In the United States the proportion of elderly people has risen from four percent in 1900 to 11 % in 1978 and is projected to be 14% by the year 2000 The occurrence of debilitating chronic diseases in the elderly increases with each additional year These diseases along with the natural loss of tissue function that occurs throughout adult life impose a heavy burden on the health care system Nutrition plays an important etiologic role in many of these degenerative changes Consequently the aging segment of the population presents a challenge to the nutrition scientist who should be able to recommend optimal intakes of nutrients to minimize the functional losses associated with aging and to optimize the health of those already elderly This sixth volume in the series Human Nutrition A Comprehensive Treatise provides a conspectus of the various interactions of nutrition with the aging process and a comprehensive survey of current knowledge of the amounts of individual nutrients needed by the elderly The volume begins with a general survey of the multifaceted relationship of nutrition to aging followed by four chapters on how nutrition can affect age related changes in selected body functions The next six chapters cover the available evidence regarding the needs of the elderly for dietary energy protein calcium trace elements vitamins and fiber Capturing Nursing History Sandra B. Lewenson, Eleanor Krohn Herrmann, 2007-11-16 Winner of the 2008 AJN Book of the Year Award Named an Outstanding Academic Title for 2008 by Choice This well written and well edited book fills a unique gap one of the precious few books that focus on science or medicine and one of even fewer that cover the history of nursing Three Stars Doody's Book Review Service While there have been many research texts in the nursing literature and nursing history is both taught in courses and of popular interest to practicing nurses there has never been a hands on text that describes the process of doing historical research in nursing This book contributed by well known and respected nurse historians provides the necessary direction guidance and examples needed to conduct historical research It covers such topics as historiography biographical research using artifacts in historical research doing archival and other data searches doing international historical research and locating funding sources for historical research Case studies will be used throughout to illustrate various methods and describe how why when and where historical research is used in nursing Features of this edition Provides direction and tools for conducting historical research Describes types of research including biographical and oral histories Covers frameworks used to study historical events such as social political feminist intellectual and cultural Addresses contemporary issues such as preserving and storing digitalized and tape recorded data and obtaining institutional review board IRB approval for research and addressing ethical and legal issues in historical research Includes case studies that provide a how to guide to conducting research
