confined space Jeremy Bentham's panopticon a prison constructed around a central tower from which hidden guards might or might not be monitoring any given prisoner at any given time As Foucault points out the panopticon creates a prison in which inmates will discipline themselves for fear of punishment even when there are no guards present He goes on to apply this insight to the manner in which all of us behave in the outside world a world in which CCTV and speed cameras are explicitly designed to modify our behavior Foucault's highly original vision of prisons also ties them to broader structures of power allowing him to argue that all previous conceptions of prison are misleading even wrong For Foucault the ultimate purpose of incarceration is neither to punish inmates nor to reduce crime It is to produce delinquency as a way of enabling the state to control and of structure crime

Work, Subjectivity and Learning Stephen Billett, Tara Fenwick, Margaret Somerville, 2007-06-03 In recent years efforts to understand learning for and throughout working life have moved away from a focus on workplace training to concerns about learning as a component and outcome of engaging in work and work related activities and interactions This shift acknowledges a broader set of workplace factors that shape workers learning and development Yet equally it acknowledges that this learning through engagement is also necessarily shaped by the diverse ways that individuals elect to engage or participate in workplace activities Central here is the issue of individuals' subjectivity and how this is shaped by but shapes engagement in work and therefore what learning flows from their participation It is in considering the relations among subjectivity learning and work that it is possible to advance both the conceptual and procedural bases for understanding learning through and for working life Moreover the focus on relations among subjectivity work and learning represents a point of convergence for diverse disciplinary traditions and practices that are provided by the book's contributors In this way the contributions represent something of the emerging perspectives that are elaborating the complex relations among subjectivity work and learning and circumstances in which they are played out in youth and education system reform Re-sizing Psychology in Public Policy and the Private Imagination Mark Furlong, 2016-09-07 This book interrogates the current reputation of Psychology both as an industry and as part of the academy It disputes Psychology's claim to be a science questions its claims to effectiveness and examines relationships with other disciplines and fields Just as Psychology's role in the design of addictive gaming machines has been underplayed so too has the conservative aspect of its regulation of normality and pathology The discipline of Psychology affects our understanding of identity and subjectivity to position the self as amoral and disconnected This book questions this assumption and more generally the received status of Psychology Contemporary Issues in Management, Second Edition Lindsay Hamilton, Laura Mitchell, Anita Mangan, 2019 The new second edition of Contemporary Issues in Management is a must have for anyone teaching or wishing to better understand the field of critical management studies The book combines a range of theoretical essays with insights into the present day world of work business and organizing gathering together cases from banking and financial services voluntary and charity work factory and food production among others This second edition evaluates some of the recent impacts of policy and economic change on business and management as well as introducing and exploring a range of international examples Together the authors lend a critical perspective to organizational enquiries with relevance to a number of debates which will be invaluable to those seeking practical as well as philosophical insights into the nature of business and work in a current climate of uncertainty austerity and change
