Bartolini Bussi, Xu Hua Sun, 2018-03-29 This twenty third ICMI Study addresses for the first time mathematics teaching and learning in the primary school and pre school setting while also taking international perspectives socio cultural diversity and institutional constraints into account One of the main challenges of designing the first ICMI primary school study of this kind is the complex nature of mathematics at the early level Accordingly a focus area that is central to the discussion was chosen together with a number of related questions The broad area of Whole Number Arithmetic WNA including operations and relations and arithmetic word problems forms the core content of all primary mathematics curricula The study of this core content area is often regarded as foundational for later mathematics learning However the principles and main goals of instruction on the foundational concepts and skills in WNA are far from universally agreed upon and practice varies substantially from country to country As such this study presents a meta level analysis and synthesis of what is currently known about WNA providing a useful base from which to gauge gaps and shortcomings as well as an opportunity to learn from the practices of different countries and contexts Official Register

The problems with GCSE English can be traced back to the 2007/09 development phase of the qualification in particular the turbulence which resulted from the shift away from a mostly linear to a modular system combined with a high proportion of controlled assessment and generous marking tolerances. Exam board experts raised concerns at the time but these were not acted upon by the regulator the then interim Ofqual. Further difficulties arose because of pressures from the school accountability system. The problems experienced with GCSE English in 2012 highlighted serious weaknesses in the moderation of speaking and listening with consequences for grade awarding. The current status of Ofqual as an independent regulator accountable to Parliament is the right one. However the Coalition Government is bringing in wholesale changes to GCSEs and A levels to a tight timetable and at the same time Ofqual must have systems in place. The Committee is also concerned that there is a rush towards separate exam systems for England, Wales and Northern Ireland without careful reflection on what might be lost or consensus that this is the right thing to do.

Mathematics Education Jacqueline Dewar, Pao-sheng Hsu, Harriet Pollatsek, 2016-11-26. Many in the mathematics community in the U.S. are involved in mathematics education in various capacities. This book highlights the breadth of the work in K-16 mathematics education done by members of US departments of mathematical sciences. It contains contributions by mathematicians and mathematics educators who do work in areas such as teacher education, quantitative literacy, informal education, writing and communication, social justice, outreach and mentoring, tactile learning, art and mathematics, ethnomathematics, scholarship of teaching and learning, and mathematics education research. Contributors describe their work, its impact, and how it is perceived and valued. In addition, there is a chapter co-authored by two mathematicians who have become administrators on the challenges of supporting, evaluating, and rewarding work in mathematics education in departments of mathematical sciences. This book is intended to inform the readership of the breadth of the work and to encourage discussion of its value in the mathematical community. The writing is expository, not technical, and should be accessible and informative to a diverse audience. The primary readership includes all those in departments of mathematical sciences in two or four year colleges and universities and their administrators as well as graduate students. Researchers in education may also find topics of interest. Other potential readers include those doing work in mathematics education in schools of education and teachers of secondary or middle school mathematics as well as those involved in their professional development.
