The ^ASacred Project of American Sociology Christian Smith, 2014-07-03 The Sacred Project of American Sociology shows counter intuitively that the secular enterprise that everyday sociology appears to be pursuing is actually not what is really going on at sociology s deepest level Sociology today is in fact animated by sacred impulses driven by sacred commitments and serves a sacred project This book re asserts a vision for what sociology is most important for in contrast with its current commitments and calls sociologists back to a more honest fair and healthy vision of its purpose

The Writer's Handbook for Sociology Dona Young, 2019-01-10 The Writer s Handbook for Sociology gives students the tools that they need to develop evidence based writing skills and format academic papers in American Psychological Association APA and American Sociological Association ASA style This book helps learners develop a reader friendly writing style incorporating active voice parallel structure and conciseness In addition grammar and mechanics are presented in a systematic way to facilitate learning helping students fill learning gaps

Alternative Sociologies of Religion James V Spickard, 2018-03-06 Uncovers what the sociology of religion would look like had it emerged in a Confucian Muslim or Native American culture rather than in a Christian one Sociology has long used Western Christianity as a model for all religious life As a result the field has tended to highlight aspects of religion that Christians find important such as religious beliefs and formal organizations while paying less attention to other elements Rather than simply criticizing such limitations James V Spickard imagines what the sociology of religion would look like had it arisen in three non Western societies What aspects of religion would scholars see more clearly if they had been raised in Confucian China What could they learn about religion from Ibn Khaldun the famed 14th century Arab scholar What would they better understand had they been born Navajo whose traditional religion certainly does not revolve around beliefs and organizations Through these thought experiments Spickard shows how non Western ideas understand some aspects of religions even of Western religions better than does standard sociology The volume shows how non Western frameworks can shed new light on several different dimensions of religious life including the question of who maintains religious communities the relationships between religion and ethnicity as sources of social ties and the role of embodied experience in religious rituals These approaches reveal central aspects of contemporary religions that the dominant way of doing sociology fails to notice Each approach also provides investigators with new theoretical resources to guide them deeper into their subjects The volume makes a compelling case for adopting a global perspective in the social sciences

Reclaiming Class Vivyan Adair, Sandra Dahlberg, 2003-04-25 Reclaiming Class offers essays written by women who changed their lives through the pathway of higher education Collected they offer a powerful testimony of the importance of higher learning as well as a critique of the programs designed to alleviate poverty and educational disparity The contributors explore the ideologies of welfare and American meritocracy that promise hope and autonomy on the one hand while also perpetuating economic obstacles and indebtedness on the other Divided into the three sections Reclaiming Class assesses the psychological familial and economic intersections of poverty and the educational process In the first section women who left poverty through higher education recall their negotiating the paths of college life to show how their experiences reveal the hidden paradoxes of education Section two presents first person narratives of students whose lives are shaped by their roles as poor mothers guardian siblings and daughters as well as the ways that race interacts with their poverty Chapters exploring financial aid and welfare policy battery and abuse and the social constructions of the poor woman finish the book Offering a comprehensive picture of how poor women access all levels of private and public institutions to achieve against great odds Reclaiming Class shows the workings of higher learning from the vantage point of those most subject to the vicissitudes of policy and reform agendas

Service Sociology and Academic Engagement in Social Problems A. Javier Treviño, Karen M. McCormack, 2016-04-01 This book challenges sociologists and sociology students to think beyond the construction of social problems to tackle a central question What do sociologists do with the analytic tools and academic skills afforded by their discipline to respond to social problems Service Sociology posits that a central role of sociology is not simply to analyse and interpret social problems but to act in the world in an informed manner to ameliorate suffering and address the structural causes of these problems This volume provides a unique contribution to this approach to sociology exploring the intersection between its role as an academic discipline and its practice in the service of communities and people With both contemporary and historical analyses the book traces the legacy characteristics contours and goals of the sociology of service shedding light on its roots in early American sociology and its deep connections to activism before examining the social context that underlies the call for volunteerism community involvement and non profit organisations as well as the strategies that have promise in remedying contemporary social problems Presenting examples of concrete social problems from around the world including issues of democratic participation poverty and unemployment student involvement in microlending disaster mitigation the organization and leadership of social movements homelessness activism around HIV AIDS and service spring breaks Service Sociology and Academic Engagement in Social Problems explores the utility of public teaching participatory action research and service learning in the classroom as a contribution to the community
