Handbook of Individual Differences, Learning, and Instruction David H. Jonassen, Barbara Louise Hopkins, Grabowski, 1993. Written for teachers, trainers and instructional designers, anyone who is responsible for designing or preparing instruction. This book begins with one basic premise: individual differences mediate learning at all levels and in all situations. That is, some learners find it easier or more difficult to learn some skills or to learn from certain forms of instruction because they vary in terms of aptitude, cognitive styles, personality or learning styles. This volume describes most of the major differences in a readable and accessible way and demonstrates how to design various forms of instruction and predict the ease with which learners will acquire different skills. Most books that discuss any learner differences focus on those that characterize special education populations, whereas this book focuses on normal learners. Designed as a handbook, this volume is structured to provide easy and consistent access to information and answers and prescriptions and hypotheses. When definitive answers are not possible because there is no research documentation, the authors suggest theories designed to stimulate future research.

International Handbook of the Learning Sciences Frank Fischer, Cindy E. Hmelo-Silver, Susan R. Goldman, Peter Reimann, 2018-04-19. The International Handbook of the Learning Sciences is a comprehensive collection of international perspectives on this interdisciplinary field. In more than 50 chapters, leading experts synthesize past, current and emerging theoretical and empirical directions for learning sciences research. The three sections of the handbook capture respectively: foundational contributions from multiple disciplines and the ways in which the learning sciences has fashioned these into its own brand of use oriented theory; design and evidence learning sciences approaches to designing, researching and evaluating learning broadly construed; and the methodological diversity of learning sciences research, assessment and analytic approaches.
