Patterns and Drivers Qing Zhang, Gang Feng, Jinliang Liu, 2024-09-20 Biodiversity can provide a series of important ecosystem functions and ecosystem services which meet the needs of human beings. Plants are the biological group with the highest carbon content on earth; their diversity has attracted increased attention. The interpretation of plant diversity patterns and drivers is crucial for the conservation and utilization of plant resources and is also one of the hot topics in plant science and ecology. There are already many studies on the patterns and drivers of plant diversity, including different diversity dimensions (e.g., taxonomic, phylogenetic, and functional diversity) and spatial scales (different plots, sites, watershed, country, continent, and globe). The mechanisms underlying plant diversity patterns are also quite complex. For example, many hypotheses are related to contemporary climate and soil conditions, with temperature, precipitation, and soil nutrient being the most discussed drivers. In addition, paleoclimate and geological events may also have a strong legacy on current plant diversity patterns. Except for these natural factors, many anthropogenic activities, including agriculture, deforestation, grazing, urbanization, and coal mining, are also important drivers of plant diversity. These anthropogenic activities can affect plant diversity patterns not only directly but also indirectly through their effects on habitat loss and habitat fragmentation. Therefore, the current plant diversity patterns are the result of many interacting factors and need to be interpreted from a more comprehensive perspective. This Research Topic will therefore provide a platform for sufficient communication aiming to integrate the research from different fields and deepen the understanding of the patterns and drivers of plant diversity. We encourage the submission of theoretical and experimental studies on different plant groups, such as seed plants, ferns, mosses, and algae. Studies based on new methods and technology, such as genomics and drones, are also welcomed. We welcome the following specific topics: Effects of historical factors, such as paleoclimate and geological events, on plant diversity; Plant diversity that is driven by contemporary climate and anthropogenic activities; The effect of habitat loss and fragmentation on plant diversity; New methods of research on the patterns and drivers of plant diversity.

The Greening of Petroleum

Operations M. R. Islam, A. B. Chhetri, M. M. Khan, 2011-01-25 The Future of Petroleum Operations This state-of-the-art text analyzes some of the most contentious issues in the energy industry, covering new and greener processes for engineers and scientists and urging them to move petroleum operations closer to sustainability. Although petroleum is still the world's most diverse, efficient, and abundant energy source, there is a growing initiative from global political and industry leaders to go green because of climate concerns and high gasoline prices. This book investigates and details how to do that. This groundbreaking new volume explains why current petroleum industry practices are inherently unsustainable and offers unique new solutions for greening the petroleum industry. Discusses hot-button issues such as global warming, carbon sequestration, zero waste management, and sustainability. Shows engineers and scientists how to implement the processes necessary to be more environmentally conscious. Offers for the first time a new theory that certain carbons do not contribute to global warming but their origin and the processes involved do. Praise for The Greening of Petroleum Operations The book proposes a paradigm shift in energy management It correctly identifies root causes of environmental impact of current petroleum production operations With proper science the book shows that fossil fuel production and utilization are inherently sustainable as long as natural materials and energy sources are used This book has the potential of revolutionizing energy management practices Farouq Ali Honorary Professor of Oil and Gas Engineering University of Calgary      Yearbook of International Organizations ,1967 Beginning in 1983 84 published in 3 vols with expansion to 6 vols by 2007 2008 vol 1 Organization descriptions and cross references vol 2 Geographic volume international organization participation vol 3 Subject volume vol 4 Bibliography and resources vol 5 Statistics visualizations and patterns vol 6 Who s who in international organizations From year to year some slight variations in naming of the volumes      Science Citation Index ,1995 Vols for 1964 have guides and journal lists      BS 1916-2 : Limits and fits for engineering.
