Islam And The English Enlightenment 1670 184:

Islam and the English Enlightenment, 1670-1840 Humberto Garcia, 2012-01-30 A corrective addendum to Edward Said's Orientalism this book examines how sympathetic representations of Islam contributed significantly to Protestant Britain's national and imperial identity in the eighteenth century Taking a historical view Humberto Garcia combines a rereading of eighteenth century and Romantic era British literature with original research on Anglo Islamic relations He finds that far from being considered foreign by the era's thinkers Islamic republicanism played a defining role in Radical Enlightenment debates most significantly during the Glorious Revolution French Revolution and other moments of acute constitutional crisis as well as in national and political debates about England and its overseas empire Garcia shows that writers such as Edmund Burke Lady Mary Wortley Montagu Samuel Taylor Coleridge Robert Southey and Percy and Mary Shelley not only were influenced by international events in the Muslim world but also saw in that world and its history a viable path to interrogate contest and redefine British concepts of liberty This deft exploration of the forgotten moment in early modern history when intercultural exchange between the Muslim world and Christian West was common resituates English literary and intellectual history in the wider context of the global eighteenth century The direct challenge it poses to the idea of an exclusionary Judeo Christian Enlightenment serves as an important revision to post 9 11 narratives about a historical clash between Western democratic values and Islam Oriental Wells Md. Monirul Islam, 2021-10-15 Oriental Wells explores the manifold ways in which the East was a major source of inspiration for the British Romantic poets who generously borrowed from the Eastern sources in their effort to reinvent the British poetic tradition It examines the orientalizing of Romantic poetry using works of William Blake William Wordsworth Samuel Taylor Coleridge Robert Southey and Walter Savage Landor Analyzing the Romantic poets' multifaceted engagement with the East the book raises the questions What led Blake to formulate his thesis that All Religions Are One Why do Coleridge's poetry and the play Osorio echo some of the passages from Wilkins' translation of The Bhagvat Geeta as well as other prominent Eastern religious texts What made Southey write his Hindu epic The Curse of Kehama and his Islamic tale Thalaba the Destroyer What was the exact nature of the negotiations between William Jones' Orientalism and Wordsworth's poetics as formulated in the Preface to Lyrical Ballads The Prelude and other poems The book convincingly argues that the introduction of cultural goods from the East played a crucial role in shaping the form and substance of British Romanticism while acknowledging that the Romantics' reception of the East was tempered by their ideological concerns and religious background British Encounters with Syrian-Mesopotamian Overland Routes to India, 1751-1795 Mohammad Sakhnini, 2023-03-14 This book argues that eighteenth century British travel writings about the Arabian Overland Routes to India offered fascinating anecdotes of encounters that allow us to rethink Enlightenment understanding of the meaning of improvement Travelling among and writing about the inhabitants' government culture religion and ruins of Syria and Mesopotamia offered Britons opportunities to pose themselves in their narratives as men of improvement abroad To that end travelling appeared in their books as serious attempt to improve their readers knowledge about a region that many in Britain saw as decayed barbaric and primitive But the various encounters British travellers experienced in the region allowed them to negotiate the impact of excessive materialism on the traditions morality religion and landscape of eighteenth century Britain At the heart of this book s understanding of Enlightenment writings about the Levant is the idea that a journey in a region which many considered as a theatre for the arts sciences and military conquests in the past and decay in the present represents a fraught relationship modern Europeans had with the past present and future

The Qur'an and the Aesthetics of Premodern Arabic Prose

Sarah R. bin Tyeer, 2016-09-10 This book approaches the Qur'an as a primary source for delineating the definition of ugliness and by extension beauty and in turn establishing meaningful tools and terms for literary criticism within the discipline of classical Arabic literature adab Focusing on the aesthetic dimension of the Qur'an this methodology opens up new horizons for reading adab by reading the tradition from within the tradition and thereby examining issues of decontextualisation and the untranslatable This approach in turn invites Comparatists as well as Arabists to consider other means and perspectives for approaching adab besides the Bakhtinian carnival Applying this critical strategy to literary works as diverse as One Thousand and One Nights and The Epistle of Forgiveness Sarah R bin Tyeer aims to prove two major points how Bakhtin s aesthetics is anachronistic and therefore theoretically inappropriate when applied to certain literary works and how ultimately this literary methodology is sometimes used as a proxy for ungrounded and sometimes unfair arguments by other scholars Foreword by Angelika Neuwirth Professor of Quranic studies Freie University Berlin Germany

Imagining Religious Toleration Alison Conway, David Alvarez, 2019-08-31 Formerly a site of study reserved for intellectual historians and political philosophers scholarship on religious toleration from the perspective of literary scholars is fairly limited Largely ignored and understudied techniques employed by writers to influence cultural understandings of tolerance are rich for exploration In investigating texts ranging from early modern to Romantic Alison Conway David Alvarez and their contributors shed light on what literature can say about toleration and how it can produce and manage feelings of tolerance and intolerance Beginning with an overview of the historical debates surrounding the terms toleration and tolerance this book moves on to discuss the specific contributions that literature and literary modes have made to cultural history studying the literary techniques that philosophers theologians and political theorists used to frame the questions central to the idea and practice of religious toleration Tracing the rhetoric employed by a wide range of authors the contributors delve into topics such as conversion as an instrument of power in Shakespeare the relationship between religious toleration and the rise of Enlightenment satire and the ways in which writing can act as a call for tolerance rich artistic musical and political culture Its importance in the history of science however has remained relatively unknown The Science of Naples provides the first dedicated study of Neapolitan scientific culture in the English language Drawing on contributions from leading experts in the field this volume presents a series of studies that demonstrate Neapolitans manifold contributions to European scientific culture in the early modern period and considers the importance of the city its institutions and surrounding territories for the production of new knowledge Individual chapters demonstrate the extent to which Neapolitan scholars and academies contributed to debates within the Republic of Letters that continued until deep into the nineteenth century They also show how studies of Neapolitan natural disasters yielded unique insights that contributed to the development of fields such as medicine and earth sciences Taken together these studies resituate the city of Naples as an integral part of an increasingly globalised scientific culture and present a rich and engaging portrait of the individuals who lived worked and made scientific knowledge there
