Isolated Tubercles Of Some Palaeoscolecida:

Isolated Tubercles of Some Palaeoscolecida Marinus Boogaard, 1989 Description of Fahlbuschia (Cricetidae) from Various Fissure Fillings Near La Grive-St. Alban (Isère, France), 1989 The Great Ordovician Biodiversification Event Barry D. Webby, Florentin Paris, Mary L. Droser, Ian G. Percival, 2004-04-14 Two of the greatest evolutionary events in the history of life on Earth occurred during Early Paleozoic time The first was the Cambrian explosion of skeletonized marine animals about 540 million years ago The second was the Great Ordovician Biodiversification Event which is the focus of this book During the 46 million year Ordovician Period 489 443 m y a bewildering array of adaptive radiations of Paleozoic and Modern type biotas appeared in marine habitats the first animals arthropods walked on land and the first non vascular bryophyte like plants based on their cryptospore record colonized terrestrial areas with damp environments This book represents a compilation by a large team of Ordovician specialists from around the world who have enthusiastically cooperated to produce this first globally orientated internationally sponsored IGCP International Geological Correlation Program project on Ordovician biotas The major part is an assembly of genus and species level diversity data for the many Ordovician fossil groups The book also presents an evaluation of how each group diversified through Ordovician time with assessments of patterns of change and rates of origination and extinction As such it will become the standard work and data source for biotic studies on the Ordovician Period

Origin and Early Evolution of the Metazoa Jere H. Lipps, Philip W. Signor, 2013-11-21 Several years ago we realized that the most prominent ideas that had been expressed about the origin and early evolution of the Metazoa seemed to have been developed chiefly by zoologists using evidence from modern species without reference to the fossil record Paleontologists had in fact put forth their own ideas but the zoological and the paleontological evidence were about the problem seldom considered together especially by zoologists We believed that the paleontological documentation of the first Metazoa was too scattered too obscure to Western readers and much of it too recent to have been readily available to our colleagues in zoology Whether or not that was entirely true we thought that a single volume reviewing the fossil record of the earliest Metazoa would be useful to many in both paleontology and zoology especially since so much new information has been developed in the last few years Some of this information has been summarized in general articles recently but an overview of most of the field does not exist We therefore organized this book in five parts so that the evidence could be placed in perspective and summarized and inferences made from it Part I introduces the previous hypotheses that have been proposed for the origin and early radiation of Metazoa Part II consists of two summary chapters that set the sedimentological geochemical and biological background to the known radiations of Metazoa

11 Andreas Schmidt-Rhaesa, 2012-12-21 This section of the Handbook of Zoology is intended as a comprehensive and exhaustive account of the biology of the taxa Gastrotricha Nematoda Nematomorpha Priapulida Kinorhyncha Loricifera Gnathostomulida Micrognathozoa Rotifera Seisonida and Acanthocephala covering all relevant topics such as morphology ecology phylogeny and diversity The series is intended to be a detailed and up to date account of these taxa As was the case with the first edition the Handbook is intended to serve as a reliable resource for decades Many of the taxa of this volume are comparatively unknown to many biologists despite their diversity and importance for example in meiofaunal communities Gastrotricha Rotifera Gnathostomulida their fascinating recent discoveries Loricifera and Micrognathozoa their importance as parasites many nematodes Nematomorpha Acanthocephala and their importance for evolutionary questions e g Priapulida Gastrotricha The groups covered range from those poor in species such as Micrognathozoa with 2 known species to the species rich and diverse Nematoda and their ca 20 000 described species While each taxon is covered by one chapter nematodes are treated in several chapters dedicated to their structural taxonomic and ecological diversity The
