Growing Up and Getting By John Horton, Helena Pimlott-Wilson, Sarah Marie Hall, 2022-10 This book explores how children young people and families cope with situations of socio economic poverty and precarity in diverse international contexts and looks at the evidence of the harms and inequalities caused by these processes Childhood in a Global Perspective Karen Wells, 2021-03-11 This popular book provides a compelling introduction to thinking about childhood in rigorous and critical ways Karen Wells offers a unique global perspective on children s lives showing how the notion of childhood varies widely and is continuously being radically re shaped Taking children seriously as active participants in society the book explores key social issues such as how children are constituted as raced classed and gendered subjects how school and work operate as sites for the governing of childhood and how children both shape and are shaped by politics culture and the economy Taking an engaging historical and comparative approach the book discusses wide ranging topics including children s rights the family play labour migration and trafficking In addition to updated literature throughout this revised third edition includes extensive new material on children s activism politics and war and a whole new chapter on juvenile justice The book will continue to be of great value to students and scholars in the fields of sociology geography social policy and development studies It will also be a valuable companion to practitioners whose work involves or impacts children as well as to anyone interested in childhood in the contemporary world Global Childhoods Stuart Aitken, 2013-09-13 This astute book initiates a broad discussion from a variety of different disciplines about how we place children nationally globally and within development discourses Unlike other books of its kind it does not seek to dwell solely on the abiding complexities of local comparisons Rather it elaborates larger concerns about the changing nature of childhood young people s experiences their citizenship and the embodiment of their political identities as they are embedded in the processes of national development and globalization In particular this book concentrates on three main issues nation building and developing children child participation and activism in the context of development and globalization and children s live in the context of what has been called the end of development These are relatively broad research perspectives that find focus in what the authors term reproducing and developing children as a key issue of national and global concern They further argue that understanding children and reproduction is key to understanding globalization Children and Young People's Relationships Samantha Punch, Kay Tisdall, 2016-04-08 This book challenges the current state of childhood studies by exploring children and young people s agency and relationships It considers how recent theorisations of relationships and relational processes can move childhood studies forward particularly in relation to re thinking claims of children and young people s agency and uncritical assertions around children and young people s participation and voice It does this by bringing together case studies of children s inter generational and intra generational relationships from both the Majority and

Minority Worlds The main themes include negotiated power agency across contexts and negotiations of identity The chapters show both the heritage of childhood studies particularly within the UK and where it may be going One of the key aims of the book is to add to the limited but growing cross world dialogue that encourages cross cultural learning from research and practice in both Majority and Minority World contexts leading towards a more integrated global approach to childhood studies This book was published as a special issue of Children s Geographies

Begging As a Path to Progress Kate Swanson, 2010-07-01 In 1992 Calhuas an isolated Andean town got its first road Newly connected to Ecuador's large cities Calhuas experienced rapid social spatial change which Kate Swanson richly describes in Begging as a Path to Progress Based on nineteen months of fieldwork Swanson's study pays particular attention to the ideas and practices surrounding youth While begging seems to be inconsistent with or even an affront to ideas about childhood in the developed world Swanson demonstrates that the majority of income earned from begging goes toward funding Ecuadorian children's educations in hopes of securing more prosperous futures Examining beggars organized migration networks as well as the degree to which children can express agency and fulfill personal ambitions through begging Swanson argues that Calhuas s beggars are capable of canny engagement with the forces of change She also shows how frequent movement between rural and urban Ecuador has altered both masculinizing the countryside and complicating the Ecuadorian conflation of whiteness and cities Finally her study unpacks ongoing conflicts over programs to clean up Quito and other major cities noting that revanchist efforts have had multiple effects spurring more dangerous transnational migration for example while also providing some women and children with tourist friendly local spaces in which to sell a notion of Andean authenticity
