Trickett, Willo Pequegnat, 2005-09-01 As news headlines report staggering numbers of people infected with HIV or AIDS across the globe and as stereotypes of typical AIDS patients become less and less specific to particular sexual orientations and ethnic backgrounds the AIDS pandemic shows little sign of relenting AIDS crosses geopolitical and social barriers and social and behavioral scientists are confronted with the new challenge of developing scientific inquiry and corresponding interventions around participatory community based and community focused methods These interventions are increasingly targeting the contextual influences on individual behavior such as peer groups social networks and support systems and community norms

Community level interventions also draw on local resources and are respectful of sociocultural circumstances and traditions. This book articulates how the social and behavioral sciences can respond to HIV/AIDS. It is written for all who have a stake in AIDS research stimulating discussion and debate about the natures of community research and intervention broadly across such disciplines as public health, community health, education, urban planning, psychology, sociology, anthropology, and philosophy of science. The book proposes alternative perspectives on means of ascertaining knowledge about the HIV/AIDS pandemic and the inclusion of community collaboration in interventions.

Where is the Field? Laura Hirvi, Hanna Snellman, 2012-11-09. The book sheds light on the experiences of immigrants in different parts of the world and offers insightful reflections on the art of carrying out fieldwork in the present day when the task of locating the field seems to present a particular challenge for researchers. This book is of interest to experienced ethnographers working in the discipline of migration studies and also to scholars conducting ethnographic research in other fields.
