Ultimately through kidwatching, teachers plan curriculum and instruction that are tailored to individual strengths and needs. Gretchen Owocki and Yetta Goodman are the perfect pair to guide teachers through the kidwatching process. Yetta coined the term in her seminal article in 1978 and has spearheaded the use of miscue analysis as a window into the reading process. Gretchen, Yetta's former graduate student, is an outstanding educator and published author on the ways young children develop literacy. Together they have written a book that will serve as a professional development tool as well as a kidwatching handbook. In each chapter, they provide a clear description of how kidwatching enhances teaching and learning, specific guidelines and suggestions for kidwatching, practical tools and resources to be used in documentation and analysis, empowerment for children, a chance to evaluate and revalue themselves by partnering with teachers to document and reflect on their knowledge. Kidwatching provides a framework for engaging in systematic yet very personalized data collection in all areas of literacy. High quality kidwatching gives teachers the information they need to teach effectively and to share detailed factual information with families and administrators. Kidwatching can also be used to strengthen school reform to develop a common set of principles and practices that are in tune with local needs and interests.
