such as early diagnosis continuing convulsions and age at onset of the illness as well as those factors that did not prove predictive of outcome such as sex and social conditions The researchers also examined the question of whether or not early neurological illness predicted a single syndrome of subsequent impairment They found that on the contrary the children displayed different patterns of longer term difficulties This is a special issue of Developmental Medicine and Child Neurology be conducted via implanted probes wired or wireless or by non destructive testing that can routinely measure the durability loading and exposure environments at key locations around the facility Routine monitoring can trigger preventative maintenance that can extend the life of the infrastructure and minimise unplanned and reactive remediation while also providing ongoing data that can be utilised towards more durable future construction Future infrastructure will need to be safe and durable financially and environmentally sustainable over the lifecycle thereby raising socio economic wellbeing The book concludes by discussing the key impacting factors that will need to be addressed The author brings a strong academic and industry background to present a resource for academics and practitioners wishing to address the ageing of built infrastructure to further examine the social stratification of very aged societies in which a substantial number of the population namely retired persons no longer have any ties to the labor market In this book the contributors explore the pattern of social stratification at three life stages young middle aged and elderly Included are discussions of various aspects of stratification such as education work wealth marriage family gender generation and social attitudes A Clinical Guide to the Treatment of the Human Stress Response George S.
