Diversification of Mexican Spanish Margarita Hidalgo, 2016-10-24 This book offers a diversification model of transplanted languages that facilitates the exploration of external factors and internal changes The general context is the New World and the variety that unfolded in the Central Highlands and the Gulf of Mexico herein identified as Mexican Colonial Spanish MCS Linguistic corpora provide the evidence of re transmission diffusion metalinguistic awareness and select focused variants The tridimensional approach highlights language data from authentic colonial documents which are connected to socio historical reliefs at particular periods or junctions which explain language variation and the dynamic outcome leading to change From the Second Letter of Hern n Cort s Seville 1522 to the decades preceding Mexican Independence 1800 1821 this book examines the variants transplanted from the peninsular tree into Mesoamerican lands leveling of sibilants of late medieval Spanish direct object masc sing pronouns LO and LE pronouns of address vos tu vuestra merced plus plurals imperfect subjunctive endings in SE and RA and Amerindian loans Qualitative and quantitative analyses of variants derived from the peninsular tree show a gradual process of attrition and recovery due to their saliency in the new soil where they were identified with ways of speaking and behaving like Spanish speakers from the metropolis The variants analyzed in MCS may appear in other regions of the Spanish speaking New World where change may have proceeded at varying or similar rates Additional variants are classified as optimal residual e g dizque and popular residual e g vide Both types are derived from the medieval peninsular tree but the former are vital across regions and social strata while the latter may be restricted to isolated and or marginal speech communities Each of the ten chapters probes into the pertinent variants of MCS and the stage of development by century Qualitative and quantitative analyses reveal the trails followed by each select variant from the years of the Second Letter 1520 1522 of Hern n Cort s to the end of the colonial period The tridimensional historical sociolinguistic model offers explanations that shed light on the multiple causes of change and the outcome that eventually differentiated peninsular Spanish tree from New World Spanish Focused attrition variants were selected because in the process of transplantation speakers assigned them a social meaning that eventually differentiated the European from the Latin American variety. The core chapters include narratives of both major historical events e.g. the conquest of Mexico and tales related to major language change and identity change e.g. the socio-political and cultural struggles of Spanish speakers born in the New World. The core chapters also describe the strategies used by prevailing Spanish speakers to gain new speakers among the indigenous and Afro-Hispanic populations such as the appropriation of public posts where the need arose to file documents in both Spanish and Nahuatl, forced and free labor in agriculture, construction and the textile industry. The examples of optimal and popular residual variants illustrate the trends unfolded during three centuries of colonial life. Many of them have passed the test of time and have survived in the present Mexican territory; others are also vital in the U.S. Southwestern states that once belonged to Mexico. The reader may also identify those that are used beyond the area of Mexican influence. Residual variants of New World Spanish not only corroborate the homogeneity of Spanish in the colonies of the Western Hemisphere but the speech patterns that were unwrapped by the speakers since the beginning of colonial times. Popular and cultured Spanish point to diglossia in monolingual and multilingual communities. After one hundred years of study in linguistics, this book contributes to the advancement of newer conceptualization of diachrony which is concerned with the development and evolution through history. The additional sociolinguistic dimension offers views of social significance and its thrilling links to social movements that provoked a radical change of identity. The amplitude of the diversification model is convenient to test it in varied contexts where transplantation occurred.

The Truths of Others Alicja Iwańska, 1977-01-01 Oral Tradition and Hispanic Literature Mishael Caspi, 1995. First published in 1995. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis, an informal company. In the Palace of Nezahualcoyotl Eduardo de J. Douglas, 2012-10-03. Around 1542 descendants of the Aztec rulers of Mexico created accounts of the pre-Hispanic history of the city of Tetzcoco, Mexico, one of the imperial capitals of the Aztec Empire. Painted in iconic script, picture writing, the Codex Xolotl, the Quinatzin Map, and the Tlohtzin Map appear to retain and emphasize both pre-Hispanic content and also pre-Hispanic form despite being produced almost a generation after the Aztecs surrendered to Hernán Cortés in 1521. Yet as this pioneering study makes plain, the reality is far more complex. Eduardo de J. Douglas offers a detailed critical analysis and historical contextualization of the manuscripts to argue that colonial economic, political, and social concerns affected both the content of the three Tetzcocan pictorial histories and their archaizing pictorial form. As documents composed by indigenous people to assert their standing as legitimate heirs of the Aztec rulers as well as loyal subjects of the Spanish Crown and good Catholics, the Tetzcocan manuscripts qualify as subtle yet shrewd negotiations between indigenous and Spanish systems of signification and between indigenous and Spanish concepts of real property and political rights. By reading the Tetzcocan manuscripts as calculated responses to the changes and challenges posed by Spanish colonization and Christian evangelization, Douglas's study significantly contributes to and expands upon the scholarship on central Mexican manuscript painting and recent critical investigations of art and political ideology in colonial Latin America

Seneca the Elder and His Rediscovered ›Historiae ab initio bellorum civilium‹ Maria Chiara Scappaticcio, 2020-06-08

The refreshed insights into early imperial Roman historiography this book offers are linked to a recent discovery. In the spring of 2014 the binders of the archive of Robert Marichal were dusted off by the ERC funded project PLATINUM ERC StG 2014 n 636983 in response to Tiziano Dorandi's recollections of a series of unpublished notes on Latin texts on papyrus. Among these was an in progress edition of the Latin rolls from Herculaneum together with Marichal's intuition that one of them had to be ascribed to a certain Annaeus Seneca. PLATINUM followed the unpublished intuition by Robert Marichal as one path of investigation in its own research and work. Working on the Latin P Herc 1067 led to confirm Marichal's intuitions and to go beyond it. P Herc 1067 is the only extant direct witness to Seneca the Elder's Historiae. Bringing a new and important chapter of Latin literature arising out of a charred papyrus is significant. The present volume is made up of two complementary sections each of which contains seven contributions. They are in close dialogue with each other as looking at the same literary matter from several points of view yields undeniable advantages and represents an innovative and fruitful step in Latin literary criticism. These two sections express the two different but interlinked axes along which the contributions were developed. On one side the focus is on the starting point of the debate namely the discovery of the papyrus roll transmitting the Historiae of Seneca the Elder and how such a discovery can be integrated with prior knowledge about this historiographical work. On the other side there is a broader view on early imperial Roman historiography to which the new perspectives opened by the rediscovery of Seneca the Elder's Historiae greatly contribute.
