Towards an Understanding of Language Learner Self-Concept Sarah Mercer, 2011-01-04 This book contributes to our growing understanding of the nature and development of language learner self concept It assesses the relevant literature in the disciplines of psychology and applied linguistics and describes in depth qualitative research examining the self concepts of tertiary level EFL learners

Although researchers in applied linguistics and SLA have recognized the importance of self constructs there remains little empirical work in the context of foreign language learning that focuses exclusively and at length on this central psychological construct The content of this monograph draws on interdisciplinary sources with input from psychology and applied linguistics It will appeal to students and researchers interested in language learner psychology as well as self related constructs in general The text provides insights into how learners view themselves and how these self beliefs can develop and affect the progress of an individual s language learning
