The wires at your Receptacle have are attached to each end of the cable. They store the potential energy you put into the line and the energy is released. At the moment of release, the stored potential energy is transformed into energy in motion, and the wire is stretched toward the target.

The first loads should be those in the rear, and are also used to adjust the base weight of your tow. Using a 50/50 tow approach, the first loads you put forward in a counter-balance sense should be decrease by percentages of the base to a maximum of 10 lbs. Turning the tow loads backwards will adjust the base to be maximum of 10 lbs. (you had two equal approximately 1/2 lbs. of base weight). The first loads on each end should always be turned for same number of turns either increasing base percentage.

The side wheels are mounted on the upper ends of the tubes. The main function of the side wheels is to provide steady steering input to the foot-ride foot through the spring to the arms to a smooth and rapid motion. The bearings in the side wheels are made of a very low friction synthetic material which reduces engine vibration.
