Killing Our Oceans John Charles Kunich, 2006-05-30 In his Ark of the Broken Covenant Kunich showed that Earth's species are concentrated in 25 zones of ecological significance known as biodiversity hotspots and maintained that we'd go a long way toward saving many species from extinction if we'd focus our protective laws and regulations on these zones In Killing Our Oceans he extends this analysis to the extraordinary pockets of life in the oceans that are similarly threatened In his Ark of the Broken Covenant Kunich showed that Earth's species are concentrated in 25 zones of ecological significance known as biodiversity hotspots and that we'd go a long way toward saving many species from extinction if we'd focus our protective laws and regulations on these zones In Killing Our Oceans he extends this analysis to the extraordinary pockets of life in the oceans that are similarly threatened From coral reefs to recently discovered hydrothermal vents the oceans contain vast numbers of endangered species We are rapidly losing these unique irreplaceable treasures due in part to an appalling lack of efficacious safeguards What's in it for us if we intervene to halt this mass extinction Quite possibly the greatest medical nutritional and scientific breakthroughs in all of human history just waiting to be discovered and harnessed or forever lost along with the dying species that hold the keys to these secrets Kunich examines in detail the applicable international laws as well as domestic laws of the nations with key marine resources and demonstrates the abject failure of these measures to prevent or halt a mass extinction in our oceans He concludes with a set of legal proposals that could start us down the road to preserving the marine hotspots and with them most of Earth's biodiversity Legal solutions are not the only answer but they are a beginning
