Masterplanning Futures Author Lucy Bullivant Sep 2012:

Masterplanning Futures Lucy Bullivant, 2012 Lucy Bullivant analyses the ideals and processes of international masterplans and their role in the evolution of many different types of urban contexts in both the developed and developing world. Among the book's key themes are landscape driven schemes, social equity through the reevaluation of spatial planning and the evolution of strategies responding to a range of ecological issues and the demands of social growth. The author's research was enabled by grants from the Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment (CABE), the SFA, the Netherlands Architecture Fund, the Danish Embassy and support from the Alfred Herrhausen Society. Green Wedge Urbanism Fabiano Lemes de Oliveira, 2017-02-23 As towns and cities worldwide deal with fast increasing land pressures while also trying to promote more sustainable connected communities, the creation of green spaces within urban areas is receiving greater attention than ever before. At the same time, the value of the green belt as the most prominent model of green space planning is being widely questioned and an array of alternative models are being proposed. This book explores one of those alternative models, the green wedge, showing how this offers a successful model for integrating urban development and nature in existing and new towns and cities around the world. Green wedges, considered here as ducts of green space running from the countryside into the centre of a city or town, are not only making a comeback in urban planning but they have a deeper history in the twentieth century than many expect, a history that provides valuable insight and lessons in the employment of networked green spaces in city design and regional planning today. Part history and part contemporary argument, this book first examines the emergence and global diffusion of the green wedge in town planning in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, placing it in the broader historic context of debates and ideas for urban planning with nature, before going on to explore its use in contemporary urban practice. Examining their relation to green infrastructures, landscape ecology and landscape urbanism and their potential for sustainable cities, it highlights the continued relevance of a historic idea in an era of rapid climate change. 4D Hyperlocal Lucy Bullivant, 2017-03-23 4D Hyperlocal A Cultural Tool Kit for the Open source City. The evolution of digital tools is revolutionising urban design, planning and community engagement. This is enabling a new hyperlocal mode of design, made possible by geolocation technologies and GPS enabled mobile devices that support connectivity through open source applications. Real time analysis of environments and individuals' input and feedback bring a new immediacy and responsiveness. Established linear design methods are being replaced by adaptable mapping processes, real time data streams and experiential means, fostering more dynamic spatial analysis and public feedback. This shifts the emphasis in urban design from the creation of objects and spaces to collaboration with users and from centralised to distributed participatory systems. Hyperlocal tools foster dynamic relational spatial analysis, making their deployment in urban and rural contexts challenged by transformation, particularly significant. How can hyperlocal methods, solutions including enterprise driven uses of technology for bioclimatic design and contexts influence each other and support the evolution of participatory architectural design What issues for example arise from using real time data to test scenarios and shape environments through 3D digital visualisation and simulation methods What are the advantages of using GIS with its integrative and visualising capacities and relational flexible definition of scale with GPS for multi scalar mapping
