What Causes Industry Agglomeration? Glenn Ellison, Edward Ludwig Glaeser, William Robert Kerr, 2007 Many industries are geographically concentrated Many mechanisms that could account for such agglomeration have been proposed We note that these theories make different predictions about which pairs of industries should be coagglomerated We discuss the measurement of coagglomeration and use data from the Census Bureau's Longitudinal Research Database from 1972 to 1997 to compute pairwise coagglomeration measurements for U S manufacturing industries Industry attributes are used to construct measures of the relevance of each of Marshall's three theories of industry agglomeration to each industry pair 1 agglomeration saves transport costs by proximity to input suppliers or final consumers 2 agglomeration allows for labor market pooling and 3 agglomeration facilitates intellectual spillovers We assess the importance of the theories via regressions of coagglomeration indices on these measures Data on characteristics of corresponding industries in the United Kingdom are used as instruments We find evidence to support each mechanism Our results suggest that input output dependencies are the most important factor followed by labor pooling

What Causes Industry Agglomeration? Evidence from Coagglomeration Patterns Dario Caliendo, 2015-05-05 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2014 im Fachbereich VWL Umweltökonomie Note 1,7 Universität Duisburg-Essen Veranstaltung Applications of Empirical Research Sprache Deutsch Abstract Das Ruhrgebiet stellt als Europas größte Industrieregion ein Paradebeispiel für die Existenz industrieller Ballungsgebiete dar Auffällig dabei ist dass industrielle Agglomerationen immer eine dominante Industrie aufweisen Das Ruhrgebiet repräsentiert die Kohle und Stahlindustrie Hollywood die Filmindustrie und Silicon Valley die IT und High Tech Industrie Dieses Phänomen ist zu stringent als dass man es als reinen Zufall bezeichnen könnte In der Tat ist der Wirtschaftsliteratur gelungen das Phänomen vor allem auf zwei Gründe zurückzuführen Zum einen siedeln sich Firmen die dieselben umweltbedingten Ressourcen benötigen in Orten an welche diese zur Verfügung stellen So wird sowohl der Bootsbauer als auch die Fischerei eine Küstenregion bevorzugen Zum anderen besagen die sogenannten Marshall Theorien dass das Ansiedeln eines Unternehmens neben einer Firma mit ähnlichen Industrieigenschaften zur Reduzierung der Transportkosten von Gütern Personal und Ideen führt Auch wenn diese zwei Theorien in der Literatur wiederholt auftauchen so wird dennoch Literatur vermisst welche die Theorien empirisch verifiziert und sich mit der Beantwortung der Frage beschäftigt Welche relative Bedeutung haben die Marshall Faktoren sowohl untereinander als auch im Vergleich zu den umweltbedingten Faktoren Genau auf diese Frage versucht die vorliegende Arbeit eine Antwort zu finden Denn erst ein detailliertes Wissen über die in Agglomerationen entstehenden Vorteile liefert Unternehmen eine solide Entscheidungsgrundlage für die Standortwahl insbesondere unter Berücksichtigung dass jede Coagglomeration auch Kosten

mit sich bringt und daher ein Trade off zwischen Nutzen und Aufwand darstellt Die Begriffsabgrenzungen in Kapitel 2 bilden die Basis für das Verständnis der Arbeit Der Hauptteil beschäftigt sich zunächst mit einer linearen Regression welche im zweiten Schritt um Instrumentenvariablen erweitert wird um eine umgekehrte Kausalität auszuschließen Das Fazit rundet die Arbeit ab indem es die Erkenntnisse zusammenfasst kritisch würdigt und einen Ausblick verschafft The Spatial Market

NBER Macroeconomics Annual 2015 Martin Eichenbaum, Jonathan A. Parker, 2016-06-22 This year the NBER Macroeconomics Annual celebrates its thirtieth volume The first two papers examine China's macroeconomic development Trends and Cycles in China's Macroeconomy by Chun Chang Kaiji Chen Daniel F Waggoner and Tao Zha outlines the key characteristics of growth and business cycles in China Demystifying the Chinese Housing Boom by Hanming Fang Quanlin Gu Wei Xiong and Li An Zhou constructs a new house price index showing that Chinese house prices have grown by ten percent per year over the past decade The third paper External and Public Debt Crises by Cristina Arellano Andrew Atkeson and Mark Wright asks why there appear to be large differences across countries and subnational jurisdictions in the effect of rising public debts on economic outcomes The fourth Networks and the Macroeconomy An Empirical Exploration by Daron Acemoglu, Ufuk Akcigit and William Kerr explains how the network structure of the US economy propagates the effect of gross output productivity shocks across upstream and downstream sectors. The fifth and sixth papers investigate the usefulness of surveys of household beliefs for understanding economic phenomena. Expectations and Investment by Nicola Gennaioli, Yueran Ma and Andrei Shleifer demonstrates that a chief financial officer's expectations of a firm's future earnings growth is related to both the planned and actual future investment of that firm. Declining Desire to Work and Downward Trends in Unemployment and Participation by Régis Barnichon and Andrew Figura shows that an increasing number of prime age Americans who are not in the labor force report no desire to work and that this decline accelerated during the second half of the 1990s.

The Impact Evaluation of Cluster Development

Programs Franco Boneu, David Alfaro Serrano, Alessandro Maffioli, Carlo Pietrobelli, Gabriel Casaburi, Victoria Castillo, Lucas Figal Garone, Elisa Giuliani, David Giuliadori, Andrés Matta, Lucía Pittaluga, Alejandro Rodríguez, 2016-05-02. Do cluster development programs work? Do they fundamentally encourage the essential inter-firm linkages and coordination? Do they lead to innovation and productivity, enterprise development, larger employment and export growth, and if so, after how long? Do other firms benefit from these programs? This book offers insight into quantitative methods that help answer these questions. Cluster development is a form of modern industrial policy that is spreading across the world to help exploit the externalities emerging from geographical agglomeration and inter-firm coordination. Therefore, rigorous impact evaluations are necessary because they help policymakers understand better ways to design future programs and provide accountability for public resources. The chapters argue that enterprise clusters and the programs to support them are diverse and multidimensional processes that require a variety of instruments to be fully understood and assessed. The book as a whole gathers various methodological essays and quantitative tests of complementary tools and approaches, emphasizing their usefulness and effectiveness in coordination with one another. Most importantly, it asserts that policy evaluation is crucial in particular when it comes to cluster development programs to ensure the best use of public resources, the accountability of beneficiaries, and most of all, to feed the necessary learning to improve the design and implementation of public policies for enterprise development.

Innovation and Regional Development in China Ingo Liefner, Yehua Dennis Wei, 2013-07-24. Although China is now the factory of the world, there is no reason to expect that it will always be content with manufacturing labor-intensive goods for foreign corporations. Scholars must now ask: What is the current level of innovation in China? And how can we face this challenge and renovate industrial production and innovation capacities in developed countries? This edited volume investigates the unique characteristics of Chinese innovation and regional development, China's policy framework, and the role that transnational corporations play in China's increasing innovation activities. This book contributes to the heated debate regarding pathways for technology progress and regional development in developing countries and identifies the ways in which local production networks respond to different configurations of external linkages. Linking patterns of global and local production networks with the trajectories of technology development and regional development allows the authors to theorize and test whether and how particular configurations of production networks generate divergent long term local productivity growth and technological development outcomes Innovation and Regional Development in China will be of interest to geographers economists China specialists development specialists and scholars working on innovation and regional development in developing areas and transition countries
