

The background of the cover is a detailed illustration of a steampunk city. A large, dark, multi-tiered structure, possibly a factory or a fortress, is the central focus. It has many windows, some of which are glowing with orange light, suggesting fire or machinery. The structure is built on a dark, rocky outcrop. In the foreground, a body of water reflects the scene. A small, dark, mechanical figure with a green light on its head stands on a platform in the water. The sky is a deep blue, with a large, full moon in the upper right. Several airships or zeppelins are flying in the sky. The overall tone is dark and atmospheric.

Cultures of Sustainability and Wellbeing Paola Spinozzi, Massimiliano Mazzanti, 2017-11-14. Cultures of Sustainability and Wellbeing: Theories, Histories, and Policies examines and assesses the interdependence between sustainability and wellbeing by drawing attention to humans as producers and consumers in a post-human age. Why wellbeing ought to be regarded as essential to sustainable development is explored first from multifocal theoretical perspectives encompassing sociology, literary criticism, and socioeconomics; second, in relation to institutions and policies; and third, with a focus on specific case studies across the world. Wellbeing and its sustainability are defined in terms of biological and cultural diversity, stages of advancement in science and technology notions of citizenship and agency geopolitical scenarios and environmental conditions Wellbeing and sustainability call for enquiries into human capacities in ontological epistemological and practical terms A view of sustainability that revolves around material and immaterial wellbeing is based on the assumption that life quality comfort happiness security safety always posit humans as both recipients and agents Risk and resilience in contemporary societies define the intrinsically human ability to make and consume to act and adapt driving the search for and fruition of wellbeing How to sustain the dual process of exploitation and regeneration is a task that requires integrated approaches from the sciences and the humanities jointly tracing a worldwide cartography with clear localisations This book will be of great interest to students and researchers interested in sustainability through conceptual and empirical approaches including social theory literary and cultural studies environmental economics and human ecology urbanism and cultural geography
