The AMS workshop was organized with support from both the National Science Foundation and the CAT center at the Uni versity of Arizona and was held in Pittsburgh Pennsylvania on August 1 2000 in conjunction with the 9th IEEE International Symposium on High Performance Distributed Computing HPDC 9. The explosive growth of Internet based applications and the prolifer ation of networking technologies has been transforming most areas of computer science and engineering as well as computational science and commercial application areas. This opens an outstanding opportunity to explore new Internet oriented software technologies that will open new research and application opportunities not only for the multimedia and commercial world but also for the scientific and high performance computing applications community. Two emerging technologies agents and active networks allow increased programmability to enable bring ing new services to Internet based applications. The AMS workshop presented research results and working papers in the areas of active net works mobile and intelligent agents software tools for high performance distributed computing network operating systems and application pro gramming models and environments. From Lambs to Lions Thomas Preston,2009-03-16 While many books discuss how nations can prevent the proliferation of biological and nuclear weapons this unique and controversial volume begins with the premise that these weapons will certainly multiply despite our desperate desire to slow this process. How worried should we be and what should we do. In From Lambs to Lions Thomas Preston examines current trends in the proliferation of nuclear and biological weapons capabilities know how and technologies for both state and non state actors and then projects these trends over the coming ten to fifteen years to assess how they might impact existing security relationships between states. With a new preface to the paperback edition, Thomas Preston also addresses the threat of biological and nuclear weapons proliferation that faces the Obama administration. How might a nuclear North Korea or Iran constrain U.S. freedom of action in its foreign or military policies? How might U.S. security be impacted by the current biotechnical revolution and spread of bioweapons? How to opponents? How might terror groups like Al Qaeda make use of such weapons in future attacks against the United States or its allies around the world? These are the central most fundamental questions facing American security policy over the coming decades, and to ignore them is to put ourselves at risk for new 9/11 style surprises. For answers and for some potentially surprising reassurances, this clear and informative book will be invaluable.
