Magazine Journalism Tim Holmes, Liz Nice, 2011-11-10 For those of us who long ago experienced the magazine love bite and have been battling the prejudice and scant attention shown this beautiful medium ever since here at last is the book to set the record straight Nicholas Brett Deputy Managing Director BBC Magazines At a time when magazines are undergoing active redefinition this book represents a welcome intervention It engages with a host of pressing issues in a manner alert to professional priorities while at the same time encouraging new ways of thinking about the challenges shaping this fast moving field Holmes and Nice are trustworthy guides taking the reader on what proves to be a fascinating journey Stuart Allan Professor of Journalism Bournemouth University Magazines are the most successful media format ever to have existed so begins Magazine Journalism as it traces how magazines arose from their earliest beginnings in 1665 to become the ubiquitous format we know today This book combats the assumptions among media academics as well as journalists that magazines somehow don't count and presents a compelling assessment of the development and innovation at the heart of magazine publishing In magazines we find some of the key debates in journalism from the genesis of marketing to the reader to feminist history subcultures and tabloidization Embedding these questions in a thoroughly historical framework Holmes and Nice argue for an understanding of magazine journalism as essential in the media landscape Moving beyond the semiotic and textual analysis so favoured by critics of the past the authors complete the story with an exploration of the production and consumption of magazines Drawing on interviews with more than 30 magazine journalists across the industry what emerges is a story of resilience innovation and a unique ability to embrace new markets and readerships Magazine Journalism takes the reader to the heart of key questions in the past present and future of journalism and is essential reading for students across journalism and the creative industries New York Magazine, 1994-06-27 New York magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea Strategic Copywriting Edd Applegate, 2025-09-18 When it comes to attracting consumers through advertising which words phrases and techniques are most effective Strategic Copywriting a detailed how to guide introduces students to time tested strategies for writing and designing successful ads In this third edition Edd Applegate explains core principles that have guided advertising for decades and introduces how to identify target markets and employ tests before and after an ad runs The book discusses the impact of artificial intelligence and the numerous AI tools being used by advertising agencies It also addresses corporate advertising and public relations especially the various communications tools such as news or press releases Throughout students learn the principles and processes of producing creative advertising for different media including the internet social media

The Little Magazine in Contemporary America Ian Morris, Joanne Diaz, 2015-04-09 Little magazines have often showcased the best new writing in America Historically these idiosyncratic small circulation outlets have served the dual functions of representing the avant garde of literary expression while also helping many emerging writers become established authors Although changing technology and the increasingly harsh financial realities of publishing over the past three decades would seem to have pushed little magazines to the brink of extinction their story is far more complicated In this collection Ian Morris and Joanne Diaz gather the reflections of twenty three prominent editors whose little magazines have flourished over the past thirty five years Highlighting the creativity and innovation driving this diverse and still vital medium contributors offer insights into how their publications sometimes succeeded sometimes reluctantly folded but mostly how they evolved and persevered Other topics discussed include the role of little magazines in promoting the work and concerns of minority and women writers the place of universities in supporting and shaping little magazines and the online and offline future of these publications Selected contributors Betsy Sussler BOMB Lee Gutkind Creative Nonfiction Bruce Andrews L A N G U A G E Dave Eggers McSweeney's Keith Gessen n 1 Don Share Poetry Jane Friedman VQR Amy Hoffman Women's Review of Books and more

Reading and the Reference Librarian Juris Dilevko, Lisa Gottlieb, 2014-10-16 Reference librarians are no longer expected to know much about the information they find they are merely expected to find it Technological competency rather than knowledge has become the order of the day In many respects reference service has become a matter of typing search terms into a library's online catalog or a web search engine and providing the patron with the results of the search Calling for a re intellectualization of reference librarianship this book suggests another approach to providing quality reference service reading The authors surveyed both academic reference librarians and public library reference personnel in the United States and Canada about their reading habits From the 950 responses the authors present findings about the extent to which librarians read newspapers periodicals fiction and nonfiction and recount and analyze stories about how reading has made them better librarians The authors also report that North American professors in the humanities and social sciences believe that the best reference librarians are those who have wide ranging subject based knowledge as opposed to the type of process based functional knowledge that is increasingly dominating the curricula of many Library and Information Science programs
